FOOD TRUCKERS BACK ON JOB

'Public Must Be Fed'-Saltonstall

Deadlock—Weary after fruitless 18-hour strike parley, John M. Sullivan (left), president of Truck Drivers Union leaves State House.

Strikers Move Food—Governor Saltonstall brings about agreement between truck strikers and employers to exempt foodstuffs from embargo—and Boston eats. Above, fish carts were piled up in idleness before the governor acted. Below, Charlestown food cars that now can be emptied . . . and trucked to Boston markets . . . and stores.

FOOD TRUCKS ROLL AGAIN

Wartime Measures Urged to End Tieup

Truck Strike Crisis

1—Foodstuffs started to move early this afternoon when Governor Saltonstall effected an armistice insofar as food is concerned between striking truck drivers and their employers. After a hurried conference in the governor's office it was stated that President John M. Sullivan, of the Truckers' Union, had agreed with Attorney Ralph Cahouet, representing the employers, to allow foodstuffs to move.

2—In his surprise move assuming complete charge of strike negotiations after an 18-hour parley of employers and striking truckmen failed, Governor Saltonstall ordered all factions to his office to resume the conferences in his presence.

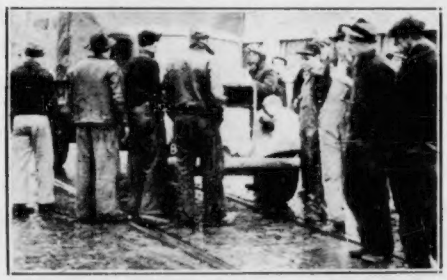
3—Four hundred freight cars, loaded with perishables, idle in railroad yards. Approximately 196 more cars due in Boston today.

4—Local 25, bulwark of the strike, endorses all present officers at annual election.

Food handlers among the truck drivers were ordered back to work shortly after noon today.

The agreement under which they returned to work was reached by Attorney Ralph Cahouet, representing trucking employers, and President John M. Sullivan, of Local No. 25, of the Truckers Union, now on strike.

It was brought about by Governor Salton-



PICKETS AT WORK—Truck is halted on Mystic avenue, Charlestown, by strike pickets . . . who have brought trucking to an almost complete standstill stall after a short conference in the executive chambers.

"My duty is to see that the public is fed," said the governor.

Truckers immediately began to move perishable goods and first loads landed in Faneuil Hall market a short time later.

The order came shortly after war-time measures had been urged on the governor as a means of ending the strike.

Immediate appointment of a food administrator was advised by First Assistant Edward O. Proctor, who informed the governor that he has the power to do so under Chapter 3, Section 62 of the Acts of 1933.

It was stated that if such a move was made the administrator would probably be Richard Olney, head of the Division of Necessities of Life in the state.

The suggestion came shortly after the governor "moved in" on the strike, assuming control of all negotiations, and after he had ordered back to the executive offices members of the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation, representatives of the strikers, and of their employers.

Faced with a similar situation three months ago, New York's Mayor LaGuardia mobilized the entire fleet of city-owned trucks, mostly from the Department of Sanitation, manned them with drivers and policemen, then announced:

"If you have food to move, call the City Hall—we'll move it for you."

That drastic action was necessary was indicated by the beginning of serious situations throughout the city. Four hundred cars of perishable food stood on sidings. Stores were out of foods. One restaurant owner said vegetables and fruits would be removed from his menu within a few hours.

And where actual shortages did not exist, sharp advances in prices were general.

It was said the situation would be acute by tomorrow, with actual

Move to Oust Jobless Board; Foley to Fight

Today's important developments on Beacon Hill included:

1—Indications that George Fletcher Wason of Hingham would succeed George C. Moyse on the state racing commission and that Governor Saltonstall would launch his fight tomorrow to oust Thomas R. Foley.

2—Recommendation by a legislative committee that the entire state unemployment commission be ousted.

Hingham Man In Moyse Job?

George Fletcher Wason, chairman of the Hingham board of health, member of the board of selectmen and gentleman farmer, is first in line, the Boston Evening American learned today, to succeed George G. Moyse on the State Racing Commission.

Moyse, former state senator from Waltham, resigned under fire yesterday, giving Governor Saltonstall half a victory in his move to oust both Moyse and Commissioner Thomas R. Foley, last month appointees of former Governor Hurley.

The Hingham selectman is a fellow-alumnus of Saltonstall, both being Harvard graduates. Wason was graduated in 1920, while the governor received his sheepskin in 1914.

Foley will battle alone to hold his job as a result of the surprise resignation of Moyse, who was served with the same ultimatum as Foley by the governor.

Both commissioners had been told to resign or be removed, allegedly for their refusal to heed the governor's demand for post-

Urges Allen, Fuchs Be Fired

Removal of former Governor Frank G. Allen, Judge Emil Fuchs and State Senator James P. Meehan, the entire membership of the State Unemployment Compensation Commission, was recommended today by the special legislative committee that investigated "gift jobs."

The commission also advises ouster of Laurence B. Harrington, executive secretary to the commission and storm center of hearings in which former Governor Hurley was accused of placing his favorites in high-paying jobs.

As part of their majority report, Republican members of the legislative committee included part of an article appearing in the magazine "Social Security" and reading:

"One of the most startling of the revelations of the committee was that no fewer than 72 of the delegates to the 1936 state Democratic pre-primary convention have been given jobs with the commission without benefit of civil service.

JOBS FOR KINFOLK

"In addition, a host of sons, daughters and other relatives of other delegates were also given positions with the commission."

The article listed the son of Chairman Fuchs as holding a $3250 post, the brother of Harrington as holding a $3000 job and "numerous former members of local Demo-

MRS. ANNE CLARK ROOSEVELT
Hospitalization for "Bronchial Disturbance"

Hospital Checkup For Anne Clark

Mrs. Anne Lindsay Clark Roosevelt, bride of John Roosevelt, the President's youngest son, is at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital suffering from a "bronchial disturbance."

This was explained by her mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark, who was at her bedside today. John was expected at the hospital late this afternoon.

Mrs. Clark told the Boston Evening American:

"Anne has a bad cough. She has had a bronchial disturbance and we are waiting for the doctor's report."

Anne was stricken Saturday at the Roosevelt apartment in Brookline, and her physician, Dr. Chaning Frothingham, ordered her to the hospital for examination.

Mrs. Clark said Dr. Frothingham would have a preliminary report on Anne's condition soon and that a complete checkup of her ailment would be made by Dr. Frothingham and his assistants this afternoon.

Anne and John were married in a colorful ceremony at Nahant last June.

Worcester Academy Damaged by Fire

WORCESTER, Jan. 9—Fire which began in a storage attic in 100-year-old Worcester Academy today resulted in damage estimated at "several thousand dollars."

The majority of students and faculty were at a movie at the time. The fire was confined to the topmost section of the four-story brick building.

Tragic Aftermath of Card Game:

Shoots Divorcee, Ends Own Life

LOWELL, Jan. 9—After chasing Mrs. Louise Hayes, 39-year-old divorcee, along a fire escape today, John J. Whyte, 45, shot and seriously wounded her, then turned the .25-caliber automatic on himself and committed suicide.

The shooting occurred in the room of a fellow lodger in a Middlesex street block, after Mrs. Hayes, clad only in her nightgown, had fled for refuge into that room from the fire escape.

With a bullet in her breast, the divorcee sank to the floor beside the bed of Richard A. Morris before the horrified Morris could leap to his feet.

The second shot sounded as he hit the floor, and Whyte, on the fire escape, crumpled in death just outside the window.

WOMAN FRIEND'S STORY

The divorcee was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and, while her condition was said to be serious, her name was not placed on the danger list.

According to Mrs. Hayes' roommate in the lodging house, situated above a business district restaurant, Mrs. Hayes, Whyte and several others had been playing cards in the room last night and everything was pleasant between the couple.

The roommate, Mrs. Beatrice C. Hamblett, told police that Whyte, who was separated from his wife, suddenly burst into the room this morning.

WOMEN FLEE GUN

"Get up!" he shouted at the divorcee. "I'm going to kill you!"

The two women leaped out of bed and fled. Mrs. Hamblett ran into the rooming house corridor on the third floor. Mrs. Hayes scrambled through the window and ran screaming along the fire escape for 75 feet until she came to the open window of Morris' room.

Bursting into Morris' room, the divorcee cried in terror:

"Jack has gone crazy!"

Then Whyte, reaching the window, fired from the fire escape.

He was a butcher in a Lowell shop. Mrs. Hayes is a Lowell waitress.

Benny Flies To Gem Hearing

FEDERAL officials are silent on appearance tomorrow in court of Jack Benny, radio and screen star, shown with wife, Mary Livingston and daughter, Joan Naomi. It is said he will be questioned about jewelry he bought for Mary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Jack Benny flew toward New York today in a hurried trip to appear before the federal grand jury investigating jewelry smuggling.

Boarding an airliner at Glendale, Cal., last night, the screen and radio comedian declined to discuss the case.

"I'm going back to find what it's all about," he said.

Federal authorities also remained silent. The Daily News said Benny would be questioned tomorrow by the grand jury concerning the purchase of $1200 in jewelry for his wife, Mary Livingston.

Benny is the latest of several Hollywood and New York notables called before the grand jury during its lengthy investigation, centered around the arrest of Albert N. Chaperau, suave international figure and self-styled Nicaraguan consular attache.

Government investigators charged that letters found in Chaperau's possession indicated he had acted as agent in the sale of smuggled finery to many well known persons.

Broken Heart Bewilders Child

Daddy's girl today!
Mummy's girl tomorrow!
She really ought to be twins, three-year-old Barbara Pashoian guesses.

But since there's actually only one of her, she's all mixed up—and a little tearful!

MRS. THELMA PASHOIAN

Her father, dark-haired, handsome young Samuel Pashoian of Lebanon street, Malden, tried to explain things today.

He told Barbara that her mummy, pretty, girlish Mrs. Thelma Staples Pashoian of Winthrop, wasn't coming home to Malden any more.

She had won something called a divorce in Middlesex probate court, and the judge had said she could have Barbara with her every week from Monday to Friday.

"So you'll be mummy's girl five days out of seven," Barbara's daddy said. "But you'll be my girl Saturdays and Sundays."

Maybe that seemed clear enough from a grown-up point of view.

Only Barbara, being three years old and not grown up at all, had a question to ask:

"Why can't I be your girl and mummy's girl, both at once, every day?"

Daddy Pashoian's answer—when he managed it—was a masterline evasion.

"You'll have to ask your mother," he told Barbara gravely.

SMILE is hard to manage at times but little Barbara Pashoian of Malden does nobly when cameraman asks her. She gives daddy, Sam Pashoian, former Malden high football star, a great big hug. They are soon to be parted as mother, divorced from Pashoian, has been awarded custody of child.

Carney Bribe Case Mistrial

TAUNTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Judge James C. Donnelly today declared a mistrial in the trial of Mayor Leo E. J. Carney of New Bedford on an indictment charging he solicited a $25,000 bribe in connection with a garbage collection contract.

When he finally called the court into session at 12:57 p. m. Judge Donnelly announced the mistrial because one juror "had been talking too much outside."

ADDRESS TO JURY

Immediately after dismissing the jury, Judge Donnelly had 9 juror, William A. Budke, a carpenter, of Taunton, arraigned on a charge of contempt. Burke was held in $500.

"It has been brought to my attention," Judge Donnelly told the jury, "that one of you number so disobeyed my instructions with reference to this case and with reference to talking about it outside, that it has been necessary for me to declare a mistrial.

"You will recall when the case opened there was a motion to have you jurors impaled, or locked up for the durm of the case, but I trusted you to behave as jurors should.

"You, therefore, are excused from any further duty in connection with this case.

DEFENDANT NOT NAMED

"In fairness to the defendant and the defense counsel I think I should say that it appears that this was an indiscretion solely on the part of the juror in question, and that neither the defendant nor his counsel had anything to do with calling off this trial."

Judge Donnelly announced also that he would excuse the entire panel from further service at this special session and ask for a new panel in two weeks.

30 Feared Dead In Brush Fires

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 9 (AP)—Brush fires started during a heat wave raged throughout much of Victoria State today with at least 30 persons missing and feared dead.

Two forestry officers burned to death at Toolangi. Many houses and valuable stocks of timber were destroyed. Damage was estimated at nearly $250,000 at the seaside resort of Dromana, 40 miles from Melbourne.

7 Asked to Talk At Hearing On Frankfurter

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—A Senate judiciary subcommittee today invited seven persons to testify tomorrow on the nomination of Felix Frankfurter to be a justice of the supreme court.

The Harvard law professor will not attend the hearing, but will be represented by Dean G. Acheson of Washington, his attorney.

Meanwhile, another judiciary subcommittee announced it would consider tomorrow the nomination of Frank Murphy to be attorney-general. Murphy has expressed a willingness to testify regarding his handling of sit-down strikes while he was governor of Michigan.

Those invited to the Frankfurter hearing, most of whom have filed protests against his nomination, are:

George E. Sullivan, Washington attorney; Collis Redd of Washington, head of the Constitutional Crusaders of America; John B. Snow of New York, representing the League for Constitutional Government.

Also H. A. Walsh of New York, Allen Zoll of New York, representing the American Federation; Mrs. Charles Feehan of Haverhill, Mass., representing the Massachusetts Women's Constitutional League, and Col. Latham R. Reed of Washington.

The Boston Bar Association, in a letter from its president, Damon E. Hall, informed the committee it endorsed Frankfurter's nomination "heartily and sincerely."

Mooney May Get Million; Tells '3 Freedom Aims'

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9 (INS)—Tom Mooney may be voted "in excess of $1,000,000" by the state legislature for his 22 years' imprisonment, it was learned today by International News Service.

A California "liberal" legislator plans to introduce the bill awarding Mooney a huge indemnity at the present session of the assembly, but will withhold action pending outcome of the pardon application of Warren K. Billings, Mooney's co-defendant, still in Folsom prison.

Both Mooney and his attorney, George T. Davis, refused to comment on the proposed indemnity.

"My plans at the moment," said Mooney, "are, first, to seek the freedom of Billings, my co-worker, co-defendant and co-sufferer; secondly, to work for the unity of the AFL, CIO, and the Railway Brotherhoods, and, third, to prevent Fascism from taking hold in America."

After a hectic 48 hours of regained freedom, Mooney slept late this morning in a suite in a downtown hotel and then made plans to visit the headquarters of his famous defense committee—an office he has never seen.

In an exclusive interview, Mooney said he feared his "enemies" have him "still marked for death."

At a "welcome home Tom Mooney dance," attended by 2000 San Francisco laborites last night, Mooney headed a grand march with his wife, Mrs. Rena Mooney, his sister and Harry Bridges, CIO director of the Pacific coast.

The dance climaxed a long day, in which Mooney traveled from the State Capitol at Sacramento, where Governor Olson personally handed him the pardon, Mooney stopped at a cemetery to plant four rose bushes at the grave of his mother and then led a gigantic parade up San Francisco's historic Market street.

Probe Other Loves Of Slayer Suspect

LEBANON, N. H., Jan. 9—Henry Gideon Begin, 35-year-old beauty shop owner, was held without bail on a charge of first degree murder here today while authorities of two states sought to unravel a career in which a trio of pretty women each played romantic parts.

Begin, suave and expressionless, pleaded not guilty before Judge Roland Jacobs to the charge of slaying Mrs. Frieda Edson, 28-year-old divorcee.

Her unclad body was found in Begin's High street beauty parlor.

Judge Jacobs continued the case until next Monday. County Solicitor Norris Cotton said he would ask the Superior court for permission to have Begin's sanity tested at the Concord, N. H., State hospital.

The grand jury will hear evidence tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Edson, his former sweetheart, was shot by Begin in a fit of rage because she laughed mockingly when he informed her their romance must end, according to his purported confession to police.

Meanwhile New Haven police disclosed Mrs. Annette Begin, the beautician's wife, committed suicide there with a chemical company executive November 9, 1930.

LISTED AS SUICIDE PACT

The bodies of Mrs. Begin and E. H. Niquette, wealthy official of the company, were found in the latter's room. New Haven police listed their deaths as poisoning in a suicide pact.

Investigators were much interested in a coincidence. A note was found near the bodies of Mrs. Begin and Niquette, signed by the latter. A note was also found pinned to the wall above Mrs. Edson's body.

CONFESSING he slew Mrs. Frieda Edson, according to Police Chief O'Neil of Manchester, N. H., Henry G. Begin of Lebanon, N. H., left, is shown being taken back to scene of crime in his beauty parlor. He later pleaded not guilty.

The note found by New Haven police read:

"Love is stronger than all else in the world. The thought of being drawn away from each other seemed foredestined and was more than we could stand. I regret very much it is not her husband who is ending all the trouble."

NOTE BLAMED BEGIN

The note also blamed Begin for refusing to divorce his wife, Niquette, according to police records, was unmarried.

County Solicitor Norris Cotton, who holds the reported confession in the beauty shop murder, declared he would probe the New Haven tragedy which robbed Begin of his wife and left him with a baby son, now 10 years old.

"As soon as the arraignment is over here," Cotton stated, "I shall go to New Haven to find out personally all I can about the two deaths there eight years ago. Begin tells me they were either a double suicide or murder and suicide, he doesn't know which."

Police broke into the beauty

shop to find the victim after Begin, in company with his 10-year-old son, his mother, sister, two brothers and an attorney, walked into police headquarters at Manchester, 75 miles away, to notify of Mrs. Edson's death.

NOTE PINNED TO WALL

A note was pinned to the wall just above the spot where the body was found. The only statement police would reveal concerning it was to say that it said in substance:

"Let this be a warning that you can't do that to me and get away with it."

In the confession which police released, Begin is alleged to have warned Mrs. Edson that their romance must come to an end after she entered his place of business at 11 a. m. Saturday.

"She kept pleading at first," the confession read, "and then she laughed out loud at me and said: 'No, you can't break off like that and I will be back.'

"We first became acquainted six months ago and I had often gone fishing with her and her son, 'Skipper'."

2 'Execute' Aged Victim Like Law

TOOELE, Utah, Jan. 9 (AP)—A murder confession reading like a report of a Utah execution—with death mask and all—was attributed today by Sheriff White to a 54-year-old trapper and an 18-year-old youth, accused of slaying Prospector Sherman W. Cadwell.

White said George Hayes, the trapper who sought to rid himself of evil spirits, and Vern Russell, a youth hunting for Cadwell's reported rich cache of money, confessed Tuesday's execution-murder.

The 71-year-old recluse, known as "Old Cadwell," was found tied to a chair, gagged, a black hood tied over his head, and executed."

The slaying was committed in much the same manner as Utah, the only state to use a firing squad, executes condemned slayers.

White said Russell charged Hayes fired two shots into the aged man's head to keep him "from telling on us."

Russell confessed, White said, he "shot up Cadwell's radio because Cadwell sent rays from the radio into his head, making him deaf and causing funny noises in his head."

Both said they found no money in the cabin.

Britain Hails 'Love Corrigan'

LONDON, Jan 9 (AP) — Bryan Grover, the daring young Romeo of the flying machine, brought home today to a romantic-minded England the beautiful wife for whom he made an audacious, unauthorized flight into Soviet Russia.

All the world loves a lover, so it made no difference to England that the Lochinvar-engineer was in the unromantic position of being broke. England insisted on a fairy story ending to the dashing romance and England got it.

The home folks had read all about Grover's madcap flight in a dilapidated second-hand sport plane from Stockholm to Russia to claim the Russian-born wife he hadn't seen in five years.

They also had read how Grover flew right into a Soviet prison where he spent six weeks before authorities became touched by the romance of his escapade and forgave the one-man "invasion" with a $300 fine and confiscation of his plane.

Crowds followed Grover and his wife the former Eleana Petrovna, everywhere they went—first to a London hotel and then to their new apartment and later to his parents' home.

Grover obligingly kissed his wife for the photographers but kept insisting:

"I can not very well speak of our love. It is too strong an emotion to express."

The Briton said he was in the air six and a half hours on the flight which ended in a pasture 100 miles from Moscow, on Nov. 13.

Grover, a one-time oil engineer in Russia, said the adventure cost him $1500—and was worth it.

Bryan and Eleana were married in Russia in 1933 when he was working for the Soviet oil industry. He left shortly thereafter and repeated efforts to re-enter were rebuffed.

Veto Kills Sales Tax in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9—The 3 per cent sales tax for Philadelphia was in the discard today as the result of a vote by city councilors not to pass the tax ordinance over Mayor S. Davis Wilson's veto.

Another result of the councilors' decision was the calling off of a mass meeting scheduled for tonight against the tax. Business and labor had arranged for the mass demonstration against the 3 per cent imposition.

'Mueller' Also A Coster Alias

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—F. Donald Coster-Musica, ex-convict who became president of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., used the alias of "Mueller" in trying to negotiate the sale of 2,000,000 rifles to a warring nation, it was disclosed today in a report of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The report was submitted to Irving R. Kaufman, assistant U. S. attorney in charge of the McKesson and Robbins investigation.

The rifles were Lee-Enfields, owned by the United States Government, and the plan was to sell them, together with some two billion cartridges from the government's surplus stores, to China or another foreign power.

The attempts to negotiate a deal, however, fell through in July, 1937, the report said, when the government put the rifles and ammunition in reserve.

Coster-Musica committed suicide December 16 in Fairfield after investigations into the shortage of $18,000,000 in the corporation's crude drug inventories disclosed him as the central figure in a huge swindle in 1913.

The Brooklyn police, it was disclosed today, have been requested to take into custody for questioning a 50-year-old immigrant, described as a man who knew Coster 20 years ago and was aware of his real identity.

The man vanished shortly after the opening of the federal investigation into the blackmailing phase of the case. Coster-Musica, government investigators believe, paid out about $50,000 a year in blackmail.

ponement of assignment of the 1939 racing dates.

In a right about face—after earlier defiance—Moyse's resignation now is in the hands of the governor.

"I have delivered my resignation to Governor Saltonstall," Moyse announced. "Governor Saltonstall is my new commander-in-chief, so I regard it as my duty to obey his request."

Told of Moyse's action, Foley insisted he stood ready to face any charge that may be brought against him.

"Commissioner Moyse's resignation is his own business," Foley declared. "It doesn't affect me. I am going to continue to carry on as I have in the past."

Moyse and Foley cast the deciding votes which awarded dates previously held by Suffolk Downs—including the Fourth of July—to Outdoor Amusements, Inc., for a track as yet unbuilt at Westport.

It was learned that Saltonstall will name the successor to Moyse at the first session of the Executive Council on Wednesday.

Although forced to put aside his purge program, because of the necessity for his taking over negotiations in the truckers' strike, the governor said he is prepared to open ouster proceedings tomorrow at 9:45 a. m. against Foley.

At that time, Foley will be given a public hearing before Governor Saltonstall, who will report his decision to the new executive council.

Meanwhile, Commissioner of Education James G. Reardon was firm in his decision "not to resign."

Demand for his retirement came from the governor after Attorney-General Paul A. Dever reported that contracts had been let in that department for hurricane and flood repairs which had no connection with the twin disasters.

Link Bay State To $5,000,000 Alcohol Fraud

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Indictments charging 68 defendants with complicity in the operations of a central New York alcohol ring alleged by government agents to have defrauded the Treasury Department of $5,000,000 in taxes were handed up here today by a federal grand jury.

The indictments, found at Auburn during October, charge the ring with operating 28 stills in several upstate counties, U. S. Attorney Ralph L. Emmons said.

Emmons quoted Treasury agents, who have been investigating the ring's activities for more than a year, as saying the illicit alcohol was sold through underworld channels in Utica, Watertown, Albany, Newburgh, Plattsburgh, Olean and Oswego, as well as through outlets in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Canada.

Salvatore Falcone and his brother, Joseph, both of Utica, were named by Emmons among the "leaders" of the ring.

No Somerville Jobs for Wives

"No jobs, ladies!"

Three Somerville wives were told that today by Charles J. Willwerth, general agent of the Somerville public welfare department, when they reported for work.

Three others sat down and waited for Water Commissioner John T. Ford.

All six were armed with a reinstatement order issued by Judge Michael Sullivan in Somerville court Friday. He ruled they should go back to work without loss of back pay.

Those who had been working in the welfare department are Mrs. Helen Haselton, Mrs. Frances Sharpe Lewis and Mrs. Mary C. Welch. They arrived at 9 a. m. and were told to go home at 9:05 a. m. They didn't go.

In the water department, waiting for Commissioner Ford, were Mrs. S. Frances Nugent, Mrs. Leah M. Estee and Mrs. Emeline M. Edkins.

Roosevelt Arms Message Ready

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (INS)—President Roosevelt's special message on U. S. rearmament will go to Congress tomorrow or Wednesday, the White House indicated today.

Mr. Roosevelt worked on the message over the week-end and today held final conferences on the defense program with the advisory board of the national resources committee, which has been studying mobilization of American industry in event of war.

Boston Shoe Show Opens at Statler

The 17th annual Boston Shoe Show opened at the Hotel Statler today, with 100 shapely models displaying the very latest in footwear. The show will last through Wednesday.

More than 300 exhibitors are showing some 35,000 shoes of every style, type and texture — what Mr. and Mrs. and Miss will don for 1939.

Glamour Girl, Earl Porter on Honeymoon

DOROTHY LINDSEY

The sudden interest the former Dorothy Lindsey, 22-year-old Winthrop beauty winner and "hello girl" developed in horse racing two years ago was understandable today.

For today she was honeymooning at Coral Gables, Fla., with Earl Porter, famous jockey.

It was while the noted jockey was working at the 1936 Suffolk Downs meet that he met and fell in love with the glamorous Dorothy, who was chosen "Miss North Shore" by the Winthrop Elks.

In almost nothing flat Dorothy became an ardent race fan. Where before she had been content to rise at 8 for her switchboard duties, the blue-eyed blonde suddenly acquired the habit of trundling down to Suffolk Downs at 6 a. m. to watch the ponies go through their paces.

Dorothy, who once was employed as a secretary at the Boston Evening American, left here last Wednesday with her mother for Coral Gables, where Porter is riding mounts at Tropical Park. The couple were wed at the Church of the Little Flower at the Florida resort.

Six Suspects Face Lineup

Suspected of three holdups in Mattapan and Dorchester, and a wild flight in which scores of police bullets were fired into their careening automobile, six men will be held for the police line-up tomorrow.

The bandits made their evening debut at the Hi-Grade Bakery in Harvard street, Mattapan, where they robbed Mrs. Rose Feldman, proprietor, of $95.

Next they attempted to hold up Joseph Palmbaum in his variety store at Washington street, Dorchester, but he drove them away with a barrage of empty bottles.

Their third appearance was at Dezoe's Lunch in Blue Hill avenue, Mattapan, where they took $95 from the cash drawer.

Ask U. S. Embargo On Japs, Italy, Nazis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The American Congress for Peace and Democracy advocated last night that an embargo be placed on war materials, loans and credits to Japan, Italy and Germany.

Police Shot Kills Fleeing Driver

WALPOLE, N. H., Jan. 9—Fleeing police pursuit at an 80-mile-an-hour clip, an unidentified man was shot dead early today when he abandoned his car in a field and attempted to escape on foot.

Checkup revealed the car was registered to a New York man. From the machine police took more than 300 gallons of alcohol.

State Troopers Chester Hartwell and Leslie Menzies began pursuit of the car when it failed to stop at Marlboro for investigation of a faulty light.

The troopers raced as high as 90 miles an hour in an attempt to overtake their quarry, but lost the car when it flashed over a railroad crossing and they were forced to stop for an oncoming train.

The officers telephoned ahead and First Constable Arthur Jennison of Walpole took up the chase when the sought machine shot through this town.

A short distance beyond the town limits the driver swerved his car from the road and bounced over a rough field. Jennison followed and, as the man got out and ran, fired a shot in his general direction.

Hull Sees Lima Pact Model for World Peace

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — Cordell Hull today offered the world the principles adopted by the eighth Pan-American conference as "a charter for international conduct."

The Secretary of State and chief United States delegate to the recent conference at Lima, Peru, said such a charter would be "based on equality, justice and freedom—indispensable foundation of peaceful and friendly relations among nations of the world."

PACT IS PERMANENT

Sun-tanned and evidently well-rested as the Santa Maria approached her New York dock, Hull added:

"I return from the conference with the conviction that its results will have real and permanent value and that, as time goes on, the far-reaching effects of principles there enunciated will become more apparent and more significant."

Flanked by other members of the American delegation, Hull characterized the Lima meeting as an "example for the conduct of international relations by friendly discussion rather than by force or violence."

He called attention to the importance of a resolution for reduction of trade barriers at home at a moment when "economic chaos is existing in considerable parts of the world."

SOLID FOR DEFENSE

The declaration of continental solidarity for defense, Hull said, "represents great progress beyond agreements adopted at former inter-American conferences."

"Outstanding at the conference," he declared, "was the realization by the delegations that international lawlessness and international anarchy exist in many areas of the earth and that the situation can be cured and that rights of nations and their peoples can be protected only by acceptance of a system of law and order based ultimately on international justice and good faith."

3 Jurors Picked In Child Killing

EXETER, N. H., Jan. 9 (AP)—Prosecution and defense today speedily accepted three jurors from a panel of 85 at the opening of the trial of Herbert W. Sprague, 53, Portland, Me., itinerant barber, charged with bludgeoning to death Barbara Driscoll, eight, of Portsmouth.

After 12 jurors had been examined, William Manson, 67, a Rye farmer; Kendrick P. Barrington, 51, a Derry pipe organ builder, and Joseph L. Glover, 47, a Nottingham laborer, were accepted before the noon recess.

After the child's body, with skull crushed, had ben found under a factory loading platform, September 4, police obtained, as lender clues, strands of hair clutched in the girl's hand, and stone described by Rockingham county attorney, Stephen Wheeler, as "twice the size of a man's fist."

An autopsy performed by Dr. Timothy J. Leary, Boston medical examiner, showed "no evidence of any sexual offense" but that the child died of "extreme violence."

Sprague admitted, authorities said, "that he had ben in Portsmouth about the time of the crime, but nedied implication.

How to Get Along in the World

Service Must Be Life Aim

Following is the second in a series by Merryle Stanley Rukeyser, the first having appeared yesterday in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
Economic Commentator for International News Service and Author of "The Diary of a Prudent Investor" and Other Books on Finance

As collective bargaining replaces individual bargaining in an increasing array of vocations, the ticklish job of appraising your own worth becomes obviated.

However, in the quasi-professional and executive posts, the determination of salaries is still largely in the zone of individual negotiation.

Excessive selfishness does not pay in business. Those who are forever thinking of getting and forgetting about giving do not possess the large successes. Those who are listed in top-notch posts are those who can inspire friendly cooperation among fellow workers.

Accordingly as young men and women seek to fit themselves for the workaday world, it is well for them to concentrate on specific training which will make them useful and productive rather than to dwell on the thought of how much salary they will get.

THINK OF SERVICE

Some of the earliest of my many lessons in the United States have told me that they find the biggest pots pay the most emphasis on intrinsic values.

The late Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank, in discussing this subject with me said:

"My advice to the young man is to think of service and forget salary. If he does that, the salary question will take care of itself."

Another, Owen D. Young, who is now one of the best paid executives in the world, went even further than Mr. Vanderlip urged when he asked the late Charles Albert Coffin, then president of the General Electric Company to reduce his salary when Young was taken on as vice president and general counsel.

Mr. Young made it clear that during the experimental period of adjusting himself to New York he wanted to be sure that he would be able to earn his salary.

"I wish to be sure of earning what I get," he said. "Give me less until my value is proved."

Mr. Young justified this attitude by the quality of services subsequently rendered and his worth was recognized by promotion first to the presidency and then to the chairmanship of the board.

There is a good deal of wisdom in Mr. Vanderlip's observation and workers can apply it profitably when working for enlightened and wide-ring men. Employers of all sorts are not blessed vanned enough to pay full worth.

PERSONAL LESSON

Early in my own career when I was still a cub reporter I was asked to cover several evenings for a departmental executive. When I was asked how much I desired to be paid I said:

"Five or six dollars a night."

"Okay," said the boss, "we'll pay you five dollars. There was a lesson in that.

On another occasion when as a young man I was invited to substitute at Columbia for an instructor, I was later asked by the late Talcott Williams how much compensation I expected.

Since it was only a temporary and emergency bit of co-operation I indicated that I wanted no pay but was glad to perform the service as an alumnus of the institution. But Dr. Williams would not hear of this. He said:

"When a lady gets married, she doesn't do it for the wedding ring, but she expects it nevertheless."

In some quarters, salaries and wages, like prices are fixed by bargaining, somewhere between the bid and asked price, the bid being what an employer offers to pay and the asked the figure which an applicant suggests as a suitable salary.

In backward areas where wages and salary are fixed in accordance with elementary principles of barter the prospective worker should have the temptation to ask enough.

He must be a sufficient judge of the market for human services to know that he is competing with other individuals capable of doing the same work, and must be able and willing to accept only what they are willing to pay.

If many services like criminal lawyers ask too high they will not find a buyer.

INFLATED NOTIONS

On the other hand it is the task of the individual to figure out the work he is best fitted for and which he can perform at a physical make-up will command the highest price. The adjustment will of course be modified by the factors of individual taste, but in general a man is fitted to make ashes at $4 a day if he is capable of earning $25 a day as a musician.

The silliest spectacle in modern business life is the man with inflated notions of his own ability. He frequently is able to sell himself to his wife at his own appraisal of his worth, and she wonders why his "extraordinary" talents are not better appreciated in the business world.

He never succeeds because he always feels that he is too good for his present job the man who gets ahead on the other hand always tries to perform the tasks at hand superbly well and by his efficiency and skill earns the confidence of his superiors who promote him.

Overconfidence frequently leads to a fall, yet a man without confidence in himself cannot expect to inspire it in others.

Another Rukeyser article will appear in the Boston Evening American tomorrow.

LaGuardia Hits Cut in Relief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York declared today that the $875,000,000 requested by President Roosevelt to keep WPA going to June 30 was $40,000,000 too low.

LaGuardia appeared before a House appropriations subcommittee as president of the United States conference of Mayors.

He said the $875,000,000 supplemental [illegible] WPA would bring the total [illegible] to $3,000,000,000 for the [illegible] June 30 to the $2,940,000,000 [illegible] appropriated by the mayors last April.

Fight Opened To Boost Old Age Pensions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Old age pension advocates mustered their forces in Congress today for a fight which they predicted would result in a material increase in federal payments to the aged.

The first skirmish is expected in the House ways and means committee next week.

Chairman Doughton (D.) of North Carolina said all signs [illegible] favor a modest [illegible] by Representative Pettengill (D.) of Michigan [illegible] raise the federal pension contribution from $15 to $20 a month [illegible] the [illegible] increase of 1 to 2 per cent [illegible] a payroll tax [illegible] before the committee.

SKIING IS EXCITING! "But don't let nerve tension spoil your fun . . .

LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL"

advises HANS THORNER

Skiing expert and director of the Mount Washington (N. H.) Swiss Ski School

HUNDREDS OF SKIERS have made their debut to this fascinating winter sport under Hans Thorner's expert guidance. One skiing principle he stresses is: "Don't let your nerves get tense, keyed-up. His advice to pupils: Pause regularly—let up—light up a Camel."

MODERN SKIING is a telling test of skill, stamina, and nerve-power. Judgment must be keen, balance perfect, for a single slip may mean quick disaster. Nerves simply must not waver. Skiers, particularly, know how well it pays to protect their nerves—to rest them frequently—by letting up—lighting up a Camel.

BETWEEN ORGANIZING CLASSES, checking up on equipment, giving exhibitions, and arranging a host of other activities, there's plenty of nerve strain in Hans Thorner's day too! Above you see him taking his own advice about the way to avoid getting tense, jittery. He's letting up to light up a Camel. "It's a grand way to break nerve tension," says Thorner. "I find Camels quite soothing to the nerves."

"AN ACCOUNTANT'S WORK calls for absolute accuracy," says Mr. C. W. McArthur, "and that means long concentration with plenty of nerve strain. My rule to avoid tension is to ease off now and then—to let up—light up a Camel. Camels are soothing."

DOROTHY LEWIS skates brilliantly at the Iridium Room, Hotel St. Regis, New York City, on a room-size sheet of ice. She says: "Whirlwind spins, turns, twists are nerve straining. I soothe away nerve tension every chance I get—I let up—light up a Camel."

WHEN BUSY, STRENUOUS days put your nerves on the spot, take a tip from the wire fox terrier pictured here. Despite his almost humanly complex nerve system, he quickly halts after any activity, to relax—to ease his nerves. So often, we humans ignore this instinctive urge to break nerve tension. We may even take pride in our will to drive on relentlessly, forgetting that tiring nerves may soon be jittery nerves! Yet the welfare of your nerves is really vital to success, happiness. Make it your pleasant rule to pause regularly—to LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL. Start today—add an extra measure of comfort to your smoking with Camel's finer, costlier tobaccos.

Spanish Envoy 'Liar'!

Bishop's Reply To Invitation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (INS)—An invitation from the Spanish ambassador, Fernando De Los Rios, to Catholic leaders of America to visit Spanish Loyalist territory brought a stinging rebuke from the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, archbishop of Baltimore, the Washington Herald said in a copyrighted story.

Citing a statement from the ambassador's invitation that religious tolerance and freedom are "fundamental principles" of Republican Spain, Archbishop Curley, according to the Herald, retorted:

"He's a common, ordinary liar. You can quote me on that."

[illegible] Archbishop Curley [illegible] two meetings [illegible] here for today, one [illegible] a move to lift the U. S. [illegible] embargo against [illegible] the other urging retention of the embargo. Archbishop Curley has urged Catholics to attend the latter meeting.

EMBASSY STATEMENT

In a statement issued with the invitation, regarding charges of persecution of Catholics in Spain, the embassy said:

"The ambassador vehemently denied the accusation and declared that religious tolerance and freedom of worship were fundamental principles of the Spanish republic written into the Spanish constitution and recently enunciated once more in the 13 war aims of Prime Minister Negrin.

"Mr. De Los Rios promised that the American Catholic representatives would be given every freedom and facility to investigate their accusations against the government."

"DESPISES THEM ALL."

Answering the ambassador's statement, Archbishop Curley said, according to the Herald:

"You can tell Mr. De Los Rios that he can't fool me.

"They all tell you that if you are not a Communist you are a Fascist. Well, I'm not a Communist and I'm not a Fascist. I'm an American and I'm for democracy.

"I guess he would have me come over wearing my clerical collar—and get murdered.

"Ask him about the coming of Rosenberg, the Soviet minister to the Loyalists. Ask him how Rosenberg ordered 200 persons put to death a day.

"Ask De Los Rios about the killing of thousands of priests and nuns. There's not a church intact in that part of Spain once held by the Loyalists. They murdered our priests and nuns without reasons. Red Spain is a common lot of murderers and I despise them all."

Outlook Dark As Chamberlain Leaves for Italy

LONDON, Jan. 9 (AP) Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain leaves for Rome tomorrow for what many believed today would be his final effort to push through his policy of appeasing the dictatorships.

The outlook was anything but bright as the cabinet premier conferred with his key ministers.

The civil war in Spain, now two and one-half years old, was the great obstacle between the dictator Benito Mussolini and the businessman, Chamberlain.

Although under the Anglo-Italian agreement signed last April and accepted by Parliament Nov. 2 Italy agreed to withdraw her troops from Spain, her newspapers openly admit Italians are fighting there now for Insurgent Generalissimo Franco.

The premier will pass through Paris and his train stopped for a meeting with Premier Daladier to give a symbolic demonstration of his sympathy with France against strident Italian agitation for French Tunis, Corsica and Nice."

Over this agitation the talks in Rome may come a cropper. Italy backed by her axis partner, Nazi Germany, has raised a clamor for concessions.

Jewish Vets Push Red War

Special to Boston Evening American

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 9—The Jewish war veterans of the United States will intensify their fight against Communism.

This was voted unanimously at its mid-winter conference over the week-end at the President Hotel.

William Berman, of Brookline, Mass., past national commander whose resolution was unanimously [illegible] Communism and Nazism in the category of dangers.

"From the World War until 1933," he said, "most patriotic Americans were very much aware of the dangers of Communism and almost forget the menace of fascism.

"Since Hitler won out in Germany, feeling among these same people has been changing to very much the opposite extreme.

"It is time now to strike a balance. Let us not forget the dangers of Nazism and Fascism, but let us remember that Communism continues to threaten all these things that mean liberty and democracy for Americans."

Berman and Isador Worth, of Camden, national commander, emphasized that the Jewish war veterans always have been pledged against Communism.

Commander Worth named a standing committee of 15, seven of them past national commanders, to carry on the augmented fight. Americanization programs of education are to be continued among youth groups, beside lectures and patriotic observances, and new means of attack are to be sought.

The J. W. V. represents 20,000 veterans of the Spanish-American and World Wars in more than 300 posts in 46 states.

The resolution declares that

"Democracy faces threats from many sides in a world troubled by ruthless dictatorship. One of the greatest of these threats is Communism. For many years we have warned the American people against it.

"True Americanism can brook no doctrines inimical to the guarantees of the Constitution and its Bill of Rights. Communism is a menace to established institutions of American democracy, incompatible with the tenents of self-expression in religion, government and the pursuit of happiness."

Japan to Spurn Open Door Plea

TOKYO, Jan. 9 (INS) The new army-dominated cabinet of Premier Baron Kuchiro Hiramuma, known as the father of Japanese Fascism, will repudiate America's insistence on the open door in China as "theoretical diplomacy" out of keeping with the new practical realities of the East Asian situation, according to the authoritative newspaper Nichi Nichi today.

Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita the newspaper asserted, on January 21 will outline to the Japanese Diet the reply Japan will make to protests from the United States against Japan's creation of a "new order" in China.

The advance statement of the Japanese position will amount to definite rejection of the United States stand that Japan must adhere to the nine-power treaty and refrain from unilateral alteration of that agreement and other international instruments assuring equality of opportunity in China.

U. S. Air Sales To Spain Bared

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (INS)—Department of Justice investigation of two major shipments of American fighting planes to government Spain in violation of the neutrality act, was revealed today in the annual report of the National munitions control board to Congress.

The report named two American aviation concerns, the Grumman Aircraft Engineering corporation and the Brewster Aeronautical corporation in the transshipment through Canada and France of parts for 40 combat planes.

Agents of the Spanish embassador in Mexico were charged with responsibility for shipment of 22 other fighting ships from Vera Cruz, Mexico.

The report disclosed that during the past year for which figures have been compiled $96,000,000 of American aircraft Great Britain was the largest purchaser, placing orders for $29,611,791 worth of fighting planes.

SHIPMENT FROM MEXICO

The board charged that 22 fighting planes were assembled at Vera Cruz from parts purchased in this country, and shipped to Spain on the S. S. Ibai in December, 1937.

"These apparent violations of law by agents of the Spanish embassador to Mexico," the report stated, "are still being investigated with a view to obtaining additional indictments."

The 40 Grumman planes were shipped from Canada through France to government Spain through use of documents forged by agents of the Spanish government, the board charged, as follows:

The Grumman and Brewster firms obtained licenses for export to the Canadian Car and Foundry company, Fort William, Ontario, of fuselages, wing panels and tail units for approximately 70 Grumman planes, stating that the ultimate destination was Canada.

DENIAL BY TURKEY

The state department learned that the planes were being assembled in Canada for shipment to Turkey, allegedly for use by the Turkish government. Ingersoll of Istanbul brought a denial from the Turkish authorities that they had ordered the planes.

The state department took steps to halt shipment of the planes from Canada, but learned that most of the parts already had been shipped to Montreal for placing on ships bound for Turkey.

Further investigation, it was declared, revealed [illegible] Spain.

The Canadian authorities gave permission for the planes to leave Canada on the basis of documents presented by the Canadian Car and Foundry company, purporting to be signed by officials of the Turkish government. The documents proved to be forgeries.

"It developed," the report stated, "that these documents were forgeries and that the persons responsible for them were either agents of, or acting on behalf of agents of, the Spanish government."

OTHER ATTEMPT BALKED

Numerous other attempts to ship planes and arms to third countries "with the intention of ultimate transhipment to Spain in violation of United States law have been frustrated by the operation of the export licensing system instituted by the neutrality act," the report stated.

The board reported that it believed no arms had reached insurgent forces in Spain from the United States since January 8, 1937, when the neutrality act was invoked against Spain, but that there had been cases of illegal exportation to the Spanish government.

The board also made public for the first time a letter from Secretary of State Hull to American airplane manufacturers asking them not to sell planes to countries which bomb civilian centers.

Now! New Rate on LOANS at Household Finance

New monthly rate is 2½%. New charges are below Massachusetts lawful maximum

● Again Household Finance makes an important revision in its charges on loans. Beginning today Household's rate will be 2½% monthly. This means that whatever the amount you borrow—whether $20 or $300—you will pay substantially less than the lawful maximum rates.

No endorsers—Quick service

You can get a loan at Household Finance on your own signature (married couples sign together). There's no need to ask your friends or relatives to sign with you. No need to wait for your loan. Loans are usually completed the day after you apply.

DON'T GET A LOAN

until you read these features of the Household Finance plan

1. Anyone may apply to Household Finance for a loan of $20 to $300 on furniture, car or note.
2. Small monthly payments. Example—$7.50 first month, decreasing each month to $5.13 last month, repays a $100 loan in 20 months, including charges, provided principal is repaid as agreed.
3. Loans without endorsers or co-makers. No wage assignments required.
4. Quick action. No tedious waiting.
5. Household Finance's monthly charge—2½%—is less than the lawful maximum.
6. Loan may be repaid ahead of schedule to reduce the cost. Charge is made on unpaid balance only.
7. No credit inquiries made of friends or relatives. Private consultation rooms.

Repayment of your Household loan can be spread over 10 to 20 months. This makes for small payments to fit your income. On a $100 loan repaid in 20 months, for instance, your first monthly payment is $7.50, decreasing each month until your last payment is $5.13. On a $200 loan repaid in the same period your first monthly payment is $15, your last payment, $10.25.

If you want to get a loan promptly, simply and at less than the lawful maximum rates, phone or visit us. Any information you wish will be gladly given without obligation.

Governor Acts in Strike

...ting affecting the entire Metropolitan area.

"I shall recommend to the governor that every possible step be taken by his excellency to have the strikers go back to work and turn the whole matter over to the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation."

GOVERNOR IN CONTROL

Despite an 18-hour conference between employers and the striking leaders before the board of conciliation, no agreement could be reached.

Governor Saltonstall, however, is in control of the situation and after it seemed that all efforts to effect a peace had for the time at least collapsed.

Both sides made concessions during the 18-hour conference and partial agreement was reached on one basis which the employers agreed to submit to their membership.

EARLY STAND ABANDONED

Early in the negotiations the union abandoned its stand for a dollar an hour for a 40-hour week, overtime to start after each eight-hour period.

The union agreed to allow the prevailing wage of $37 a week to stand but for a 44-hour week rather than a 45-hour week as at present.

They further agreed to allow the men to work 48 hours in the week at the rate after the first 44 and finally they agreed to allow overtime to begin after the 48-hour stretch, leaving the present time of begin after each eight-hour period.

Another was the time limit on the meeting of the...

Preston Sawyer, head of the union negotiators, pessimistic after it was over saying:

"We gained no ground and were foolish to stay there all night. Four more unions are about to join us, out of sympathy."

REPEATED OFFER

Spokesmen for the employers were hardly more optimistic, say...

"We offered several propositions, but none could be agreed upon. We repeated our offer of arbitration and we understand the union officials are giving it consideration."

General Cole, chairman of the arbitration board, was more optimistic. He said:

"Progress was made to such an extent that at one time sub-committees, representing the union and the employers, accepted a proposal subject to the approval of the larger committee at the conference, but the union's general committee turned it down.

"A counter proposal was made by the union, calling for a 44-hour week with straight time to 48 hours, overtime after the 48, and wages of $37 for 44 hours. The present rate is $37 for 48 hours.

"The employers' committee, while not recommending this, did agree to submit it to their membership for approval or rejection."

UNION HEADS RE-ELECTED

And it was on that note that the conference ended. All participants showed visible effects of the strain of the long wrangling, and all hurried away to rest, only to be yanked back by the Governor's call.

The union leaders incidentally received tangible evidence of the support of the men they represent. All were re-elected practically by acclamation when ballots were counted this morning in the union's annual election.

Four hundred cars of perishable food stood in freight yards this morning before the "move the food" order came.

It was said that 12,000,000 pounds of food and fuel, frozen quickly, have not been reported as moving with freight embargo. Some railroads, however, New Haven railroad, are making a spur to the pier to move the fish.

"We don't care about the fish that goes out ordinarily by train," they said, "but none that usually goes by truck is going by train—or any other way."

F. H. Cross, manager of the Massachusetts Port...Association, asserted that the vessels at sea have left...and that approximately...pounds of fish due here within the next few days will have to be dumped into the sea.

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

THE LIBERALITY OF THE NEW LEGISLATURE will be given a minor test by the gentlemen who operate the nightclubs and hotel supper rooms . . . Extension of the Boston one o'clock curfew for serving liquor, so that three o'clock of weekday mornings, and two o'clock of Sunday mornings will be the deadline for "the last round," is about to be requested again . . . A bill will be filed this week . . . The sponsoring organization is the Massachusetts Restaurant Owners, hence the subject is not a purely local matter.

GEORGE HOLLAND

That much of the story has a familiar sound . . . The same thing was tried before, and the measure failed to move beyond committee . . . This year, the boys hope, it will be different, and toward the solons toward favorable action, an interesting modification of the bill has been made . . .

The legislature will be asked to amend the beverage control regulations so that only ten nightspots, all to be situated within a radius of two miles of the State House, would be favored with the later closing hours . . . .

The Boston restaurateurs believe that the city's capacity for drinking late can be satisfied in ten first-class supper rooms . . . And the growing list of conventions under Mayor Tobin's campaign to attract this type of business to town is a list which will take on more length if Boston ceases to be the only "one o'clock town" among the major metropolises.

Can the Governor Make It "Stick"?:

The Coakley-Tuckerman feud, carried over from the last administration, got short shrift from Governor Saltonstall at the first meeting of the new chief executive with his executive council . . .

Seats were being assigned in the council chamber . . . The governor came to Councilor Tuckerman and asked him personally which chair he preferred.

"I don't care where you put me as long as you don't place me next to Coakley," the councilor from Hamilton declared. Councilor Coakley didn't let that pass . . . "That makes it mutual," he volunteered.

The Governor ended it [illegible]

"I don't think that is very seemly, Mr. Tuckerman," he said. "I was able to do it as speaker of the house, and I propose to try to keep personalities out of our discussions here."

Once Over Lightly:

Jimmie Roosevelt chuckled and smiled while listening to his father's showmanly speech, broadcast from Washington, at the Jackson Day Dinner at the Copley-Plaza.

When the President affected an authentic Irish brogue to tell a very amusing story about an Orangeman and a Fenian, Jimmie positively beamed . . .

The President became unconventional in word usage with his "incorrectly again informed," and Attorney-General Paul Dever gave his oratorical powers a stern test when he got "unanimity" and "unequivocably" into one sentence . . .

Not for the Jackson Day Dinner here was $11,500 . . . Last year's receipts were $20,000, but the tariff was $25 a copy in 1938 . . . Boston led Chicago, and was second to New York, in the amount of money raised last year . . . The 1939 rate of $10 a plate was the cause of the lower receipts . . . [illegible]

SENATE COMMITTEE INDICTS NEW DEAL

THE SENATE committee on campaign expenditures has confirmed what the Congress and the country already well knew—that there has been and IS an appalling amount of POLITICS IN RELIEF.

The New Deal has always been suspected and often accused of playing politics with human misery.

Now it is CONVICTED of it.

With devastating detail, the Senate committee of which Senator Sheppard of Texas, a Democrat, is chairman, has PROVED that there has been flagrant solicitation and coercion of relief recipients by politicians, in open defiance of public morality in all cases and in brazen violation of law in many cases.

BEAR IN MIND that this was not a partisan investigation seeking political advantage, but a Democratic investigation by a DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE.

Fortunately it was not a WHITEWASHING committee.

Probably it would have preferred to ACQUIT the New Deal of the sordid charge of having diverted public funds from relief to politics.

But it had the honest courage to REPORT THE FACTS IT FOUND.

And these facts support and confirm in the fullest manner that politicians have sought to gain and have sought to keep public office through coercion of thousands of unfortunate American citizens reduced by circumstances entirely beyond their control to dependence on government relief.

HERE IS THE ANSWER to Mr. Eccles, who said there is no harm, and in fact great virtue, in enormous public debt, in spending and in taxation.

Here is also the answer to President Roosevelt, who said there is no place for ECONOMY in government.

The Sheppard Committee has exposed enormous WASTE in government spending, possibly CRIMINAL waste.

It has uttered no word of criticism of HONEST RELIEF, and the country at large has not abandoned the principle that the provision of shelter, food and clothing and even WORK for the destitute is a national responsibility.

But WASTE IS NOT RELIEF.

And debt, spending and taxation for the SUPPORT OF WASTE is not an honest function of government and should not be condoned or tolerated by the country.

CONGRESS SHOULD COMPLY with the recommendation of the Sheppard committee that a permanent committee on campaign expenditures and "use of governmental funds for the purpose of influencing primaries and general elections" be appointed.

Congress should also abolish lump sum appropriations for relief and public works, to be expended at the will of job-hungry politicians for their perpetuation in public office.

Congress should keep its pledges to the people and live up to its responsibilities and obligations to the people by immediately TAKING and KEEPING POLITICS OUT OF RELIEF.

Frightened Dollars

The Editor Says:—There are billions of dollars awaiting to be invested to expand heavy industries that would [illegible] persons REAL WORK.

[illegible] dollars [illegible] from [illegible] to the fear of INCREASED TAXES and PUNITIVE LAWS.

George H. [illegible] of the New York chapter of the National Association of Manufacturers the other day told a gathering of the Association that [illegible] the 70 PER CENT [illegible] BEAR that Congress would levy [illegible] taxes on [illegible] tax law.

[illegible] PER CENT [illegible] there was no [illegible] of any [illegible] under the present Washington program if we [illegible] and taxation for punitive purposes, they refused to invest.

Congress will [illegible] to face this grave problem during its present session or never faces any other.

If the capital is to be [illegible] power, if the unemployed are to be [illegible] LEGITIMATE work at LEGITIMATE wages, if the "relief" agencies are to [illegible] as political machines, if billions of dollars are to be [illegible] out of pockets and banks—then taxes MUST be [illegible] and heavy industry treated as a FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE and NOT as an enemy of the people.

FRUIT GROWERS, convening in Worcester condemn Congressman Patman's proposal to levy prohibitive and discriminatory taxes on chain stores. The fruit growers are wise.

The men who have faced with the problem of quickly selling perishable [illegible] and the "chains" a ready, available and profitable market.

Consequently, the Patman Bill, though not aimed directly at them, would [illegible] cause serious financial loss for hundreds of Massachusetts [illegible] growers. One cannot wipe out a market [illegible].

One fruit grower [illegible] with the American Federation of Labor, [illegible] Mr. Patman's legislation to embody one of the most [illegible] ever proposed in a free government.

The [illegible] contends that the power to tax IS the power to destroy [illegible] and that ALIENS to the American system could be [illegible].

[illegible] New Dealer addressing a farm convention [illegible] The way to improve your apple trees [illegible].

EXPERIENCE PROVES the effectiveness of our Massachusetts Automobile Excise law which gives the Registry of Motor Vehicles [illegible] the registrations when car owners fail to pay the tax.

Registry [illegible] that of the 59,655 persons against whom [illegible] were filed last week, 39,823 paid [illegible] during the grace period of grace expired.

Despite [illegible] frequently imposed on many, it cannot be [illegible] unfair. Certainly no motorist [illegible] permitted to [illegible] use of the highways while [illegible] and pay promptly.

[illegible] return to the old system under which [illegible] permitted to [illegible] as much as [illegible] of five-dollar bill.

A [illegible] Automobile Excise law [illegible]. In that State, motorists pay [illegible].

WHEN A BOY AVIATOR [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] are [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] BOYS [illegible] are now as [illegible] the models as they used to [illegible] and peg tops. The [illegible] heart raises [illegible] of mobility to the multitude of amateur aviators. Among these are the Rockne Big Buzzer, Chili-Duster Golf Ball Eager Little Stinker of Hannibal, Mo., Pettibone Burp, Skallinger and Winchell Wonder.

Model planes powered with a rubber band have been on the market for quite a few years. It is the business of a boy to get the model added to the new excitement in the juvenile world.

Reginald Denny, the movie picture actor [illegible] between juvenile airplane stunting and some pretty serious stuff in business. The same charming [illegible] who [illegible] with a toy airplane still [illegible] and along into his middle years, also enhanced his clowning, as a light comedian and made him the favorite of the national juvenile audience.

He was a professional boxer in his youth, an aviator in many kinds, and beyond doubt the one man the boys would pick to lead them skyward.

BUT MR. DENNY'S career is growing up. He sells six robots guided by radio, to Uncle Sam—three to the Coast Artillery and three to the Army Air Corps. They will be used this summer in target practice, and are expected to be the forerunners of larger robots guided from the ground. They have a wing spread of 12 feet and weigh 70 pounds. They can [illegible] at a speed of from 5000 and 8000 feet.

[illegible] boys who now have the airplane mania, Mr. Denny kept at it for years, just for [illegible]. Then he saw great possibilities for [illegible] and established Reginald Denny Ltd. [illegible] Angeles, to pioneer [illegible] one mile case of [illegible] father) to the man, demonstrated all over America these days.

THEN THERE'S the flying auto, just taking the air. This is a development of the late Juan Cervera autogiro and if the old family buggy of the air is to become a reality, this [illegible] the ticket. It tucks under [illegible] wings or vanes and jogs [illegible] streets, under [illegible] and, in the clear, [illegible] any [illegible] on your front [illegible].

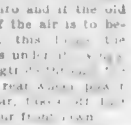
"Harold, fly down to the grocery and bring me a dozen eggs," says mother and off goes Harold goes, nonchalant as you please.

The Post Office Department [illegible] make the autogiro [illegible] Where cities are close together, like New York and Philadelphia, there is no advantage in air mail—too much time lost to and from airports in proportion to the time saved. An autogiro can descend vertically, on a given spot which in this opening experiment will be the roof of Philadelphia's new post office, at Chestnut and Thirtieth Street, specially designed for autogiro landings. The flying auto will settle back and [illegible] on Camden.

In all [illegible] of these only a beginning [illegible] has been made. But it begins to look as if [illegible] of a new [illegible] actually in the [illegible]. You will think so if you read boys' technical journals and learn what they are [illegible].

'BUGS' BAER SAYS:

THE INTERSTATE Commerce Commission refuses to ratify the New Year until everybody is home from the Rose Bowl. Our good resolutions are now nine-day kittens. We are sorry to state we drowned one of 'em.



WE'VE BEEN MAKING these personal reformatory amendments for many years. And they last about as long as an apple in an orphan asylum. That's because we are probably the world's most conscientious night watchmen.

ON DECEMBER 31 we sat up all night to see the old year in. Now we sit up all night to see that it doesn't come back again.

A GOOD RESOLUTION, is a wish that never hatches. All of [illegible] have to be made individuals, honest [illegible] and perfect if [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] with our [illegible]. In the [illegible] of misery, human [illegible] not [illegible]. Only [illegible] and [illegible] itself to [illegible]. A [illegible] [illegible] in endurance [illegible] [illegible] only to the [illegible] of [illegible].

THE HUNS [illegible] us off to the [illegible] [illegible] policy as applied [illegible] probably will happen [illegible] our [illegible]. [illegible] quite so [illegible] without [illegible] ideas of support. When an immovable invitation meets an irresistible habit you must reach for your bowl of tobacco and the flagon of sickbut.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THIS story is true. It was told to a mother's heart by the beating heart of a little child in the twenty-some other odd hours since it crept from its hiding. Mommy and I cried mad.

Great plans for Christmas Eve for the Lads. Up are down we will be naked . . . sixty cents burning . . . fifty toys twinkling little face shining bright as the Christmas Tree.

And how he was looking behind his back . . . into the closet. For even if it was four yet before sixty could come you never know. But even a Christmas Eve is not end at all. So buttoned in his sleeping suit 'til he looked like a baby bear they carried pop-eyed Dan to his waiting room and knelt while he said his prayer.

"Now . . . let me . . . 'cause I sleep—
"If—you—Lord my so—to—keep.

LOWER AND LOWER the little head . . . lower and lower the weary lids sank . . . Uh rollicky clock on startled. Dear Daddy slipped off into Sleepyland . . . ready to wake in the morning.

But with the morning Daddy was not so ready to wake. Laughter and listening forgot on lip. Mom and Dad had waited for that first joyful shout.

Between breath and breath the future hit. Brief as that! One wild pulse and they were up swift as that. In one leap they'd made his bed . . . stepped . . . and crouched beside his head. BUT DANNY SLEPT!

Not lightly now. Not smiling that toothless grin waiting for Santy to come. Dusky circle of the scarlet of that tossing face. Rigid, ghastly. The quiet of that leg which did not toss. Most frightful of all . . . that sleep which did not wake.

Perhaps you know, though God grant you don't. The agony of those weeks. Feet slipping ceaselessly along the stair . . . and voices shouting, sobbing on the air . . . until, at last, one day small Danny woke and wondered:

Why's not Santy here?
"DID DOT DET MAD?"

POOR LITTLE LAD lost in the immensity of his first bewilderment . . . trapped in the cruelty of his first pain . . . asking if "DOD DET MAD?"

Baby hands banned forever from joyous cookie raids . . . baby feet barred forever from glorious races with the sun . . . for 1000 years they have been man's most tragic monument to man's stupidity and indifference. "Dot did NOT det mad," little tots of Cairo . . . little Dannys of today. NO BUT GOD'S CHILDREN . . . YOUR BIG BROTHERS . . . GREW INDIFFERENT. LEFT YOU TO YOUR FATE!

INFANTILE PARALYSIS . . . those two words are history's most furious indictment of man's inhumanity to babes!

Millions of little faces fighting desperately for breath in steel tombs . . . peering wistfully from windows . . . "God did NOT get mad," little ones. We, who said we loved you . . . WE FORGOT! AND FORGET YOU STILL!

DOLL HOSPITAL PATIENTS FASCINATE BOSTON AMERICAN FEATURE WRITER
Ann Marsters Visits "Ward" Where Some of Her Own Treasures Were Hospitalized

Girl About Town

by Ann Marsters

WHEN THE LOVELY CHINA HEAD of our baby doll lay in scattered fragments, we knew with awful certainty the real meaning of tragedy. We were inconsolable. No doubt we would have grown up to warped and embittered girlhood had there been, in such days, such a thing as a doll hospital. Because most children do not want a new doll to replace a beloved old one. They want the old one made as good. That's what dolls hospitals are for.

The other day I visited the same doll hospital where many of my forgotten dolls were hospitalized. It is at 67 Temple place presided over . . . for 1936 . . . by Mrs. Fred Hockaday.

MRS. HOCKADAY is a nice little woman with very green eyes, who has a people and dolls. Some of the very best people in Boston are her customers although she doesn't like to mention any names. Quite a few of them go in for collecting dolls, or having their own dolls repaired for their children. Mrs. Hockaday says that the best people have the finest ideas from the common herd, and we suppose Mrs. Hockaday should know. She says (for one thing) that they like to have doll wigs made from the cuttings of their own or their children's hair, and Mrs. Hockaday's doll hospital can make beautiful wigs out of human hair.

QUITE APART from the repairing side of it, there is quite a doll museum in the little shop. Here you can find dolls as old as 200 years, with stiff wooden legs and weird little faces. Practically the whole history of dolldom can be laid before your eyes. And Mrs. Hockaday can explain everything to us, do.

A few years ago the most popular type was the cuddly baby doll. Now it is the more grown-up doll, the doll that appears to be a young lady between six and ten years. We don't know what the age-line of fashion is the Shirley Temple influence. Mrs. Hockaday doesn't know either.

MEN

They find you are their morning star
Because you are the way you are
A man adores the sentiment
Search him to make a doll's end
And once they have you sure and sound
Then want to change you all around
Your words and ways they get a curse on
They'd make of you another person
Then influence and vitalize
To add all that they admired
This make me sick, they make me tired

— DOROTHY PARKER

YOU'VE BEEN HEARING a lot about one Felix Frankfurter these days because of his appointment to the Supreme Court. But, seriously, I believe anyone's telling you as yet what a fine dancer he is. And he's very fond of dancing, too.

We caught several glimpses of Lim. last summer at the Ritz Roof where he would spend a good part of the evening on the dance floor. We wonder if as a Supreme Court Judge, he'll completely neglect such happy things as dancing.

TALK AROUND TOWN: Bunny Berigan is planning to step his own and to replace Harry James. Benny Goodman's trumpeter Jack Warner, Jr., is joining the local Will Hays office . . . A great deal of the action in "The American Way," new Moss Hart-George Kaufman show, with Fredric March, will take place right in the orchestra aisles. The romance between Christine Stevens, Boston society belle, and Ray Ellerbe, Paradise band's lyric yodeler, is chillier than a Back Bay breeze . . . Betty Blumberg, former secretary to Murray Korman, the Broadway nude-and-negative Rembrandt, is Tommy Manville's handholder Number One—or was, a minute ago . . .

ALEXANDER'S RAGTIME BAND has grossed $3,000,000 in the U. S. A. and $2,000,000 elsewhere, to date . . . Chic Adams, of Abe Lyman's staff, and Lucille Lindwood, the radio chirper, are tra la! . . . Adele Rogers St. John's play about a mimic, which Sheila Barrett inspired and in which she will star, has been titled "Impressionist."

GOLD STARS: To Teddy Powell's score for the new Paradise show, especially "Love On a Holiday," and the beautiful girls you look at while you listen to them . . .

To William Faulkner's exciting new novel "Wild Palms" . . .

To Helen Westley's tumultuous performance in "The Primrose Path" . . .

The new Miliza Korjus recordings of Strauss waltzes . . .

Glen Gray's lilting dance music in the Waldorf's Empire Room.

TAG LINE: A beau found Harriett Sittar, Paradise beauty, reading Variety between shows. "Why are you reading the blank pages?" he asked. "I'm resting my eyes!" she snapped.

AVOID WAR!

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

CHICAGO, ILL. Last of the [illegible] hearings on the Nye [illegible] was held in Chicago. [illegible] to determine [illegible] that the United States [illegible] going to war [illegible] A stack of [illegible] interest [illegible] power [illegible]

[illegible] that [illegible] [illegible] talking about the [illegible] of war [illegible] [illegible] forgotten that we are not [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] about what [illegible] [illegible] the war [illegible] [illegible] they [illegible] and more practical, peaceful [illegible] war is not the only means of commanding a decent respect for the opinion of mankind. There are many methods short of war but stronger and more effective than mere words of bringing home to aggressor governments the aggregate sentiments of our own people."

[illegible] the street [illegible] to [illegible] that [illegible] might result in [illegible] aggressive nations and [illegible] to help.

THAT IS A FAIR [illegible] of that part of the message. It omits [illegible] the action [illegible] leaving [illegible] to the President's discretion. He doesn't want [illegible] to intervene any way we [illegible] to prevent one side [illegible] the aggressor. That would [illegible] us into foreign wars as we should use "any method short of war to put the side we favor."

This confuses the use of the term war. As the early part of the message suggests, war is only [illegible]

This country [illegible] so much of the world's wealth and resources that even though we rightly decline to intervene with armies we might intervene with embargoes, warships and give credits to one side or the other. But this is not proceeding along practical, peaceful lines.

This is NOT NEUTRALITY. This is WAR.

It is [illegible] shown that the President would like to have the Neutrality Act amended to permit him to intervene in just this way by discretion and in his own discretion. But again, THIS IS WAR.

JUST NOW when there is a growing and I believe unwise demand to limit this power of Congress by requiring a popular referendum, it is going to the other extreme to give a single individual power to mix this country up in one side or the other in the bloody festival and insane slaughter that openly exists in so many parts of the world today.

An overwhelming majority in this country DOES NOT WANT to see us engage in [illegible] international poker games. We never took a hand before that we didn't come home dressed in a barrel.

IT IS TIME WE STOPPED BEING THE INTERNATIONAL FAT BOY WITH THE BAG OF CANDY AND BEGAN MINDING OUR OWN BUSINESS.

Socialite Bride's Nieces Almost Steal Spotlight At Ceremony

THE FORMER U. S. AMBASSADOR to Belgium, Dave Hanson Morris, and Mrs. Morris of New York, are announcing today the engagement of their daughter Alice V. Morris, 21, to Walter Knight Sturges, son of Mrs. Walter Knight Sturges of Beacon street, Boston . . .

The bride-to-be, who is a member of the Junior League, graduated from the Spence School and received her degree from Barnard College in 1930 . . . In 1933 she acted as secretary to her father when he first went to Belgium to occupy his post as ambassador . . .

Though Mr. Sturges is now residing in Columbus, Ohio, where he is an architect, he is well known in Boston social circles . . . He was graduated at Milton Academy and Harvard, where he graduated cum laude in 1931 . . . He received his graduate degree from the Yale School of Architecture . . . His father was the late Walter K. Sturges of Providence and Boston . . .

Dick Preston, who was taken moving pictures of men out standing events in the North Shore and in the winter polo grounds at Hamilton, was of course, with Mrs. Preston, a guest at the wedding of Miss Martha Moore Proctor . . . Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thompson, another couple who came to town for the occasion and as many scenes of the wedding as the limitations of late afternoon light and candlelit church would permit, so the newlyweds can have a record of how they and their guests looked arriving at and leaving from the ceremony at Emmanuel . . .

THREE of the most interested spectators at the Preston-Proctor wedding Saturday at Emmanuel Church were Peggy and Pansy Shiverick and Tina Proctor, nieces of the bride, who were photographed arriving at the church with their aunt, Miss Esther Proctor, the maid of honor.

Intermingled with the ever fashionable black were many brilliant costumes to record vividly in a color movie . . . The bride's sister, Mrs. Nathan Shiverick, who came on from her home in Avon, N. Y., to occupy the front pew with her father, James Howe Proctor, wore a floor length gown of beige crepe with a small brown hat, sables encircling her shoulders and a corsage of purple orchids . . .

Mrs. Harold G. Cutler, the bridegroom's mother, wore a gown of deep violet crepe with trimming of a lighter shade on her hat and a corsage of orchids . . . The bride's little nieces and nephews caused quite a stir as they marched down the aisle, for the three girls, Peggy and Pansy Shiverick and Tina Proctor, looked like little elves in snow white princess coats with fur lined hoods . . . Their youthful escorts were James Proctor, Jr., and Nathan Shiverick . . . The little girls are the daughters of Mrs. Nathan Shiverick of Avon, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Proctor, 2d, of Hamilton . . .

Adds Springlike Note to Her Costume

JEAN BOWMAN, who is scheduled to become the bride of Dick Pentecost before summer, added a springlike note to her outfit with a paisley turban . . . Betsy Chalifoux' Frenchy suit of powder blue and brown, trimmed with mink, will loom up vividly in the color movie, and her mother, Mrs. Harold L. Chalifoux, wore a woodsy green beret and slippers with her shiny carasul coat . . .

"Oh, dear, this excitement is too much for me!" Mrs. Henry Lee exclaimed to an usher when she dropped her purse in the rear of the church . . . though she looked anything but distraught in her becoming black fox chubby, stylish black dress and hat . . . Her daughter, Reddy Stevenson, wore an ensemble of her favorite shade of green, which sets off her reddish gold hair . . .

Kitty Pentecost and Benjamin Beale set off from Emmanuel for a sprint up the avenue to the Proctors' residence for the reception . . .

RICHARD PRESTON and his bride, the former Martha Moore Proctor, as they left Emmanuel Church, Saturday afternoon after their fashionable wedding. The bride is the daughter of Mr. James Howe Proctor of Commonwealth avenue, and Mr. Preston the son of Mrs. Harold G. Cutler of Beacon street. The couple will reside in New York. Boston Evening American Photo

Ginny Ward was escorted by Sam Cabot, Elise Sortwell by Ted Chase and Alfred Sweet, Jr., and Connie Turner attended with her fiance, W. Arthur Dupee, Jr. . . . They shared a pew with the Dick Thorndikes, Jr., and Connie's mother, Mrs. How ard Turner . . . Still other representatives of the North Shore crowd were the Thomas Proctors, 2d, Mr. and Mrs. Howland Seabury and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer . . .

Lewis Watson Announces Her Engagement

Of great interest to Harvard men and debutantes of three seasons ago is the announcement of Lewis Watson's engagement to William Jason Mixter, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Mixter of Brookline.

The future bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. Caldwell Watson of Malvern, Arkansas, but she has made her home with her sister, Mrs. Robert C. Daley of Dedham, for the past several years. She is also a sister of Langdale Watson, a very popular debutante of a few seasons ago. Miss Watson is a member of the Junior League and has attended Beaver Country Day and the Garland Schools.

Mr. Mixter, who graduated from Harvard last June, is now in business in Cleveland, Ohio.

Recital In French

Winter weary Bostonians will take an imaginary flight to Paris Wednesday evening, through the delightfully light-hearted program of French songs, poems and monologues presented by Germaine Arnoux of the French capital. The recital will take place in the Empire Ballroom of the Vendome Hotel, where many socially prominent music lovers will gather.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Townsend of Cambridge will attend as guests of Miss Gertrude Townsend, one of Miss Arnoux's pupils. Also on her party will be Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Tabor and Miss Frances D. Tabor. Mrs. Edward Cummings, Mrs. Allan Forbes, Mrs. J. T. Kerr Bell and Mrs. Kellogg Lane are all planning to attend.

Busy Day For Drive Couriers

The Cruzade Couriers, society girls who have volunteered to transport visitors from one agency to another in the series of Open House activities sponsored by the Community Cruzade, will cover a lot of territory tomorrow.

The day's program calls for open house at twelve of the health and charitable agencies participating in the Community Federation, and located anywhere from Dedham to South Boston.

The Lend-a-Hand Society will have open house in the morning, with Mary C. Coburn as hostess and various members of the board including Miss Edith R. Cunningham, Mrs. George S. Fuller, Miss Anna Hall, Mrs. Thomas Hoag and Mrs. Harry Smart, on hand to conduct visitors through the organization.

A moving picture will be shown for visitors at the Judge Baker Guidance Center, and guests will be further refreshed by coffee and sandwiches. Trustees of the Judge Baker include Mrs. Robert Homans, Mrs. Henry A. Murray, Mrs. Harvey Shonds, Miss Frances G. Curtis, Dr. Miriam Van Waters and Miss Anna L. Thorpe.

The Convalescing House for Convalescents in Dedham will have its Open House from 10 a. m. to noon. Mrs. Arthur Williston, president, will act as hostess.

The board of managers include Mrs. Alexander Wadsworth, Mrs. Felix Buckmann, Miss Sarah K. Bruce, Mrs. Arthur T. Wilder, Jr., Mrs. F. S. Stevenson, Miss Margaret Weeden, Miss Talbot Aldrich, Mrs. H. H. Gardner, Mrs. Dexter W. Perkins, Mrs. Walter C. Hobson, Mrs. Robert M. Lapham, Mrs. Winthrop H. Wetherbee, Miss Margaret Vickery, Mrs. F. Stanton Deveraux, Mrs. R. Amory Codman, Mrs. J. P. Sortwell, Mrs. Robert I. Day, Mrs. Nelson B. Eaton, Mrs. Charles L. Gow, Mrs. G. L. Rowland, Jr., Mr. Daniel F. Plympton, Mrs. Dorrance A. Tilton, Mrs. Ralph B. Williams, Mrs. Carl J. Gilbert.

THIS ADVICE is nothing new . . . but it's just as good as it ever was. When your New Year resolutions have done a humpty dumpty and life seems to hold nothing but ripe disappointments, buy a new hat. Pick up a little of the Napoleon complex with one of the giddy hats inspired by Schiaparelli's originals, and see if it doesn't tide you over. Or go sheikish in a turban with a thick rolled edge. Your five dollars won't go much farther or do more good than it will this way. Both bonnets cost exactly that. Top, Miss Florence Wilkinson models the Little General model, gay with a red and blue cocarde and (Napoleon, did you ever?) a scallop of face veil. Miss Eleanor McCabe shows the turban with Arabian striped trim and wide felt streamers in back that are rather wimple-ish. Ask Another Boy to Dance

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I asked one of my boy friends to go with me to an informal dance given by our club at the home of one of the members. She has a large recreation room and we occasionally dance there. However, he promised to let me know next day whether he could go, but that's been a week ago and still he doesn't answer me.

As I don't want to miss going to this dance-party, do you think it would be proper to ask another boy, without waiting for the first one to answer?

CLUB-MEMBER.

Nothing is more irritating than the situation you describe—to invite a person to go somewhere and then to be kept dangling in the air, not knowing whether you can depend on him or her. Since the boy failed to keep his promise to notify you in a day or two, I'd ask someone else in his place.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP
If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.
BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.
In some cases you need a good general tonic, remember for over 60 years women have told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Carson Risks Life On Great Salt Lake

CHAPTER 17

The mountain men sidled behind their leader Kit and stared in their gray buckskin garments at the threatening crowd. And behind Fremont in his fine blue uniform gathered the army men. Beyond them, endless, were the men of the East and their Indian wives and the long wooden tables groaning with beef haunches set under the high adobe walls.

"Your man has struck an officer," repeated Fremont savagely.

"Your officer forgot Oliver Wiggins was not a soldier," retorted Kit. "He had no right to give a Carson man orders."

In the moment there was no love between the two. It was a contest for power. And both mountain men and army men were armed and ready to fight and all were fascinated.

In the [illegible] Lieutenant Fremont had won a battle over the men that he had not lost his followers. But he would be now with his men. Out here on the [illegible] Kit was the leader. A handful of mountain men, armed with rifles, were more dangerous than the entire army. Fremont knew that he must [illegible] Kit Carson.

Fremont controlled his fury. He said in a voice that was heard only by Kit: "Mr. Carson, I order you to [illegible] Oliver Wiggins [illegible] Captain St. John and the regular army. Playbill For This and Future Weeks

THIS WEEK

SHUBERT—VICTORIA REGINA. Laurence Housman's historical panorama of modern times. And Helen Hayes in another play to be written by Miss Hayes' papa. For a weeks engagement. The best seen here this season, consist of 10 scenes from the late Queen Victoria showing her as the young girl the passing years, the bereaved widow and finally as the very old lady of Windsor at her triumphant Diamond Jubilee.

Werner Bateman as the distinguished and handsome Prince Albert, heads the supporting cast which includes Alexander Clark, Abraham Sofaer, Merryl Bowden, Charles Francis, James Gibson, Eva Leonard-Boyne, Tom Woods, Pamela Henry-May, Augusta Roeland and others. The play is being presented by Gilbert Miller. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

IN PROSPECT

SHUBERT—"STARS IN YOUR EYES," Dwight Deere Wiman's newest musical comedy opening January 17, has for its co-stars Ethel Merman and Jimmy Durante, both recently from Hollywood. The book was written by J. P. McEvoy, the music by Arthur Schwartz and the lyrics by Dorothy Fields. Joshua Logan is directing, the sets are by Jo Mielziner, the costumes by John Hambleton and the solo dances and ballet choreography are by Carl Randall.

A scintillating supporting cast surrounds the stars, notably Tamara Toumanova former baerina of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, Richard Carlson talented young actor who returns to the stage after several successful screen roles and Mildred Natwick, youthful character actress who is making her mark as comedy detail.

PLYMOUTH "OF MICE AND MEN," John Steinbeck's Drama Critics' Circle prize winning play of last year comes here January 23 on the Sam H. Harris auspices as the fourth in a series of new subscription plays sponsored by the Theater Guild and the American Theater Society.

Care Lee and Guy Robertson head the cast which includes Edward Andrews, John I. Hamilton, Thomas Findlay, Lester Damon, Grant Mills, Charles Slattery, Garner Straughan and Logan Wapper. George S. Kaufman is director.

WILBER "O STRANGER STRANGER," a new play by Esther Forbes and Saxon Kling is being presented the night of January 30 by Lee Shubert with Francine Larrimore in the starring role.

The supporting cast is headed by Viola Roache, Otis Shaw and Don Terry with Arthur Storm directing. Two weeks engagement.

SHUBERT "SUSAN AND GOD" the John Golden production of Rachel Crothers' successful comedy drama, is the February 13. It has been breaking box office records throughout the country the past few months and is termination of a sensationally long and lucrative Broadway run. Gertrude Lawrence as the Susan Trexel of the title has her fullest role.

COPLEY "MACBETH" to be presented January 31 by the Federal Theater in Eric Dowyas adaptation of the classic play. Thought to be the first time the text, the new treatment being considered, presents this interpretation and grisly effects.

The cast will include Orson Wilson, Harry E. Lyon, Eva Trapko, Basil Howard and William Warren. There will be night performances and a Saturday matinee

Motion Picture Editor International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2.—"Are Husbands Necessary?" Who's been asking me have I heard that title? You heard it when Claudette Colbert was in Europe and Paramount hurried to get a story for her. Then Colbert came home and she was needed in "Zaza," so the spritely comedy by Virginia Van Upp was laid on the shelf. Now it will be directed by Mitchell Leisen and will be released in March. It's Paramount's leading offering for the coming year.

Madeleine is expected back before long from Europe and starts "Are Husbands Necessary" before she does. Mr. Paul Sloane will direct. Something tells me that the title of her next picture will be changed to Buckle Madeleine and her husband, Capt. Philip Astley. They both have a sense of humor about their long-distance marriage which keeps Madeleine's lawyer husband in London most of the time while she is here in Hollywood making movies.

Experimental, perhaps, but interesting is the plan of Fred Boulle, of London, to make pictures in Hollywood for British release. Boulle has leased space at the General Service studios and appointed Mel Abbott, formerly of RKO, as the manager of his Commodore Picture Corporation. Boulle plans to use stars who are popular in England but not rated "A-1" in America, in his movies.

Chatter in Hollywood: Are Priscilla Lane and Assistant Director Oren Haglund secretly married? Ten different people on the Warner lot would be willing to go to court and swear they are and they base their contention on something the rumored bridegroom said in discussing the prettiest of the Lanes.

I have an idea that Warner Brothers will prefer to keep the marriage of Lane's one-between their prettiest young star and

The Haglund director's secret. It would be unlucky for Priscilla to marry without any trouble for Priscilla's real name is Priscilla Mullican.

Professor John Erskine's daughter, Ann, and J. P. McEvoy's son, Bertie, are interested in the stage. Ann is one of players and technicians of the new Dwight Deere Wiman musical "Stars In Your Eyes," which comes to the Shubert Theater on January 17 with Ethel Merman and Jimmy Durante in the starring roles.

The daughter of the famous essayist, novelist and lecturer is working as an assistant stage manager and young McEvoy, whose father is the author of the book of "Stars In Your Eyes," is to be a minor principal in the cast. Both have had previous theater acting experience on Broadway.

VIRGINIA BRUCE IN 'THERE'S THAT WOMAN AGAIN' AT KEITH'S

Melvyn Douglas Shares Billing

By PEGGY DOYLE

Photo: "That Woman Again," with Melvyn Douglas on the Keith Memorial screen but the time she's Virginia Bruce. Hollywood's foremost 14 carat blonde in "There's Always A Woman." In the first of what seems to be a never-ending series of "There's Always a Woman" dizzy blondes played the pretty but dumb blond wife.

Mr. Bruce current wife doesn't make life an easier for Detective Douglas. She's even more delectable than the cool Dear was. Florida Farrell, the whimsical wife. Not any more so than Kitty Bow ever.

Ye scribe guessed it. "The Thin Man" touch is fairly apparent in this one and there's nothing reprehensible about the whimsy of that but it isn't thick enough to put over the heavily carpeted farce that is.

Here are numerous jewel robberies, suspects and spats to foment the resulting havoc but it's hard to get very excited over all of it. The most entertaining moments occur when the Bruce Mrs. South are fussing.

Margaret Lindsay who is being featured by Stanley Lupino over seas came in for hospitality. Edith Avelon jewelry store is a long way from Shangri La and the Taj Mahal.

James Cooper is the star of "Souvenirs from Home," the second feature. Wendy Barrie and Edmund Lowe provide heart interest.

Virginia Bruce is featured in "There's That Woman Again," now at the Keith Memorial.

New Ethel Waters Hit

The curtain ascends! Ethel Waters on the fall of the first curtain of last week's New York premiere of Members Daughters surpassed that given any actress white or black this season. This was not said by the critical audience next morning.

"Members Daughters" is an adaptation by Dorothy and DuBose Heyward of the latter's novel of the same name written some nine years ago. It is a frank, unabashed melodrama dealing with the violent and passionate lives of three generations of Charleston Negro women. Guthrie McClintic is the producer.

The stock market ended the initial 1939 week flat on its back. After making a cheerful attempt at recuperation the relapse naturally aroused suspicion. Particularly since the undesirable action followed refusal of the industrial section to climb to fresh highs as the rails had done.

We are not going to turn bearish on the meagre evidence at hand. Bear market talk seems foolish. It is all right to look ahead at all times, but the mere fact a drive for higher prices has been a failure does not necessarily mean a real bear phase must now develop.

Bottlers Open Boston Show

The 22d annual New England convention and exhibition of the Eastern Soda Water Bottlers Association and the Maine, New Hampshire Vermont, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Canada Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages opened at the Hotel Bradford, Boston, today.

Despite the fact that the national bottlers' convention, which incidentally broke all records for attendance was held two months ago in New York, this year's show is 25 per cent larger than any on record, with every available foot of exhibition space sold weeks in advance.

The convention opened officially today and closes Wednesday evening with a banquet, entertainment and dance. Tonight at 8 p. m. in the annual opening night smoker and get together for all the members of the industry and their employes will be staged in the Lobby Salon of the Bradford. One of the features of the evening will be the showing of the popular picture, "A Century in Baseball."

"These alone would justify the maintenance of the laboratory, since they are the things which guarantee leadership.

"The power of the industrial research laboratory resides in the philosophy of controlled experimentation and in organized coordinated attack by trained specialists on each element of a problem.

"It differs from the fundamental science research laboratory only in that the work of the latter is but loosely coordinated and that it has a definite utilitarian objective for its work rather than a mere seeking after new knowledge for its own sake.

The report was accompanied by a bill to abolish the entire upper strata of the commission and replace it with an orderly new set-up for the handling of relief checks.

If the recommendations of the investigating committee is followed out and the FCC is administered by a director, Colonel John J. McDonough, now federal WPA administrator for Massachusetts, is in line for the post at $10,000 a year, according to State House reports today.

Ordinary employees who are properly under civil service will not be disturbed, but those whose status is in the least doubt will have to have their employment circumstances reviewed.

The report followed 18 public hearings held at the State House during the summer by Attorney Warren Patten, special counsel of the investigating committee.

The report will find ready acceptance, and the bill for reorganization is sure of passage according to indications. Chief of the committee who read all the testimony and signed the report is Representative Christian Herter, Back Bay, who has been elected Speaker of the present House.

GOODWIN IS CHAIRMAN

Senator Arthur L. Goodwin, Melrose, two years Republican floor leader of the Senate, sat as chairman of the hearings and also signed the report.

Representative Henry G. Parker, Brookline, Democrat, last week as assistant Republican floor leader of the 1936 session and Representative William E. Kirkpatrick, Holyoke, former Republican floor leader of the House, were the others.

A minority report was filed by Senator Eugene Cronin, Somerville, the 1935 Democratic floor leader in the Senate, former Representative John F. Aspell, recently appointed by former Governor Hurley as assistant business agent in the department of mental diseases, and Rep. Joseph N. Roach of North Adams.

The new bill would provide for a director at a salary of $10,000 a year, an amount equal to the pay of the governor.

The director would have the right to select five deputies whose salaries would not exceed $4000 a year and would be subject to approval of the governor and council.

The bill would also eliminate the present unpaid advisory council and create a new one of six members to be paid at the rate of $25 for each day the council meets, but not to exceed $2500 in a year.

SALARY NOW $6500

Judge Foley as chairman now receives $6500 a year and former Governor Allen and Senator Meehan are paid $6000 each. The commission also has five present deputies but there is no check on their salaries or appointment by the governor and council.

Because the new bill concerns the spending only of federal funds that are provided for, pay of the state setup under the law, the bill was referred to the legislative committee on administration today instead of the ways and means committee.

Senator Cornelius F. Haley, Rowley, chairman of the administration committee, set next Monday for public hearing on the new measure.

As part of the reorganization plan, the bill also would set up a board of review, limited to three attorneys and to pay of $25 a day when the board sits. The board would be limited to 300 sittings the first year and 200 a year after that.

Asthma Cure Told by Dafoe

By ALLAN ROY DAFOE, M. D.
Personal Physician to the Dionne Quintuplets

Hay fever and asthma are manifestations of allergy which usually appear much later in life than eczema. I have seen cases of eczema a few weeks after the birth of a child, but it is unusual to find a child suffering from hay fever or asthma before the child is at least a year old.

However, it doesn't appear before the child is three or four years of age.

Hay Fever is the name applied to a condition which is characterized by a running nose and running, smarting eyes. We know little of hay fever in this part of Ontario because our air is exceptionally free from smoke and pollen dust.

COMES AND GOES

It isn't hard to tell the difference between hay fever and the common cold, for in the former the victim may be suffering acutely from the complaint and yet, an hour later, may be entirely free from it. It has been given the name hay fever because at one time it was supposed to have been caused by hay pollen entirely. Obviously this isn't true because there are those unfortunates who have the same complaint all winter, when there aren't any pollens in the air at all.

Asthma in general is more serious than hay fever.

Hounds of Spring Are On Winter's Traces

SOON SIGNED CONTRACTS FROM contented ball players will be snapping back. Six weeks hence the Boston Bees and the Red Sox will bowl down the Atlantic seaboard to Florida's Riviera, where a summer sun will shine upon the pleasant training scene.

AUSTEN LAKE

For exactly 52 years, or ever since Cap Anson first took his White Stockings to Hot Springs in 1886, the ball magnates have been hauling their athletes South for winter boiling, charging it largely to the ballyhoo account on the theory that the publicity which comes from the camps stimulates enough home interest to cover the cost of travel and maintenance.

But whether the ballyhoo this spring will be up to the flamboyant standards of other years depends on the decision of the wages and hours administration in Washington. The question is being arbitrated by the baseball writers. If the W & H daddies insist on the full letter of the law as it stands, i. e. pay on the basis of 24 hours a day from the time the writers take up their satchels and toy typewriters and take train, there may be no springtime optimism coming out of the camps.

Still, I think the matter will be arranged in time for the ball authors to desert our icy mountains for Florida's coral strand.

Nation Needs a Diversion

THE NATION NEEDS ITS TRAINING CAMP [illegible] as a sedative for the international headaches, racial gripes and sectional animosities which are flooding the daily prints. Thus (I hope) you will soon be reading how Lefty Grove is the [illegible] of the old prison camp, while Al Simmons is frisking around on his creaky legs like a new foaled colt.

I trust that [illegible] and I wonder whether it is not better to pretend that it is for the sake of shedding rays of Southern sunshine to tide our Winter weary patrons over the Spring thaw.

I have often [illegible] on this problem while hoeing my hideaway brown on some leafy Florida sand listening to the silvery rustle of the palm fronds and the pert chatterbox of mockingbird robins. I confess that it has caused me quite a wrench to write the bold, raw facts and say that certain newspaper-guided rookies could not really hit a [illegible] with a ripe or pitch at exercise right [illegible] fast enough to [illegible] a change was.

Bob Quinn and Eddie Collins have been pretty forthcoming when I wrote the rude [illegible] about their hard heads in past Springs. But sometimes the [illegible] with whom one feeds fruits and fowl two between [illegible] are a social viper for writing that they are afflicted with [illegible] knee, boil on the back, or [illegible] foot or kindred [illegible]. Woe, can you blame them? How would I like it if someone [illegible] me as a superannuated palsied [illegible] getting away with a lot of forensic [illegible]?

The Job Has Grown Easier

YES! IT IS RISKY TO A WRITER'S independence to consort, on a plane of social intimacy, with the people he is hired to write about. For the ball players are mostly friendly chaps with worries about family and money. And they are apt to mention confidential bits about little Edna's septic sore throat, or read you sweet baby letters which prattle about nursery nothings in an up-and-down scrawl and are sealed with a couple of X-kisses.

So, if these same baseball daddies lose the ball down their shirts, or stumble over their own insteps or field fly balls with their skulls, you are tempted to hide the ugly facts in your overnight dispatch and tell your home readers that Sa-And-Sa is a diamond in the rough, without mentioning how rough that rough is.

Fortunately in late years the quality of the Bees and the Red Sox has improved, so that the ball authors can now be optimistic without being derelict to their journalistic vows.

But in the older day it was always a conflict between the softening influences of the sunny Southland, life on the cuff and the cordial freemasonry with the writer's rugged devotion to duty. For it was no small temptation for one who is hauled out of the bleak blizzardy North and installed under a midsummer sun, with electric push buttons to answer your every whim and no expense to oneself, to turn up the wick of one's gratitude and pay your hosts with publicity.

Not that Bob Quinn or Eddie Collins wish to have their club's guessed into a pennant nor have ever tried to put a halter on the writers. But just that merriment steals into our typing fingers as we play our piano forte pieces for the papers, and every stumble-footed yokel is bathed in a golden glow.

The Most Expert Expert

IF IT IS THE DUTY OF THE training camp writer to predict how the pennant dice will fall, there is something very wrong with the rules of pay. Maybe that is what the Wages and Hours people in Washington had in mind when they framed their bill to give the ball writers 12A extra hours a week at time-and-a-half.

If the ball authors were infallible in their pre-season picks they wouldn't have to expert very long before their experting made it unnecessary to play the season's games. They would expert themselves right out of a job. I will always think, as the most historic case of experting on record, the one that Ty Cobb showed me some years ago. Ty took me to the washroom of the Hotel Brunswick one September afternoon and pointed to a pencilled list on the woodwork where some loiterer had arranged the major league teams exactly as they stood at that moment.

"That guy knew his stuff," said Ty. "This list was here last April when we made our first trip to Boston."

"Excuse me Mistah Cobb," said the washroom attendant. "That list has been theh fo' at least two years."

"All the more astounding," chirped Cobb, after a crestfallen moment. "The guy predicted the standing two years before it happened."

Ban Asked for 'Paid' College 'Ils'

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 9 (AP)—The University of Michigan board in control of physical education proposed today that colges which subsidize athletes or award [illegible] be barred from membership in the Naonal Collegiate Athletic Association.

It said that [illegible] tacked to an [illegible] that did not belong to such a national group could not [illegible] be engaged.

The proposal was [illegible] in a 20-page report signed by Chairman Ralph W. Aigler and college deans of [illegible] who said the [illegible] were the New York Giants and the Washington Redskins and asserted that "professional and semi-professional teams should pay [illegible]."

"Soon or later," the report said, "there must be a separation of those institutions which look upon intercollegiate athletics as mere adjuncts of educational programs from those whose teams are made up of hired performers. It has already become increasingly evident that the former group is not finding it desirable to schedule games with those of the latter."

The report said that [illegible] of Michigan football income for the 1938 season was approximately $[illegible] larger than the $192,[illegible]0 reported for the 1937 season.

The Bruins broke even on the road. On Thursday night they routed the Black Hawks 2 to 1 behind [illegible] a Mel Hill tally in the final period but they were shut out by the Leafs on Saturday night.

After playing the Black Hawks in Chicago [illegible] at the Boston Garden, the Bruins will be in action for a full week. The [illegible] have [illegible] a chance for a [illegible] and are [illegible] worn out from the [illegible] grind.

Herbie Schmidt, who was out of the game with a cut [illegible] for almost three weeks, returned to the Bruins lineup in Toronto and gave a fine account of himself.

Manager Art Ross expects to have Bill Cowley ready for the Toronto game one week from tomorrow night. Bill has been on the injured list with a wrenched knee for almost a month. His return will put the Bruins at full strength.

B's Defer Plan For Farm Tieup

BATAVIA, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—Formation of a Western New York and Pennsylvania class D baseball league appeared delayed today until next year after a meeting of the proposed circuit's promoters.

Only two cities, Olean and Jamestown, reported themselves at a conference prepared to enter teams.

Oliver French, president of the Rochester International League club, one of the new league's sponsors, indicated unless at least a six-team league could be formed within two weeks the project would be dropped until 1940.

John Quinn, son of Bob Quinn, president of the Boston Bees, accompanied the Bradford delegation to the meeting.

The group reported Boston was considering a working agreement with Bradford but an expenditure of $7500 to improve ball park facilities might not be available until next season.

Patty Berg's Success No Accident of Chance

This is the fifth of a series of intimate portraits of sportdom's 1938 champions who are expected to gather additional athletic glory in 1939. Morton Moss, noted International News Service sports writer, portrays the big names of sport from the more human point of view. His subject for today is Patty Berg, the Minneapolis Miss who is national women's golf champion.

International News Service Sports Writer

Nub-nosed, freckle-panned Patricia Berg resembles one of those jolly kid characters out of an "Our Gang" dramatic vehicle manufactured in Klieg town.

Having absconded with the 1938 women's national amateur muddlers' imperial skull cap in her fourth try, this 20 year-old product of a Scandinavian papa and an Irish mama already has begun the Dixie trek which she blandly expects to be but the initial step in numerous 1939 conquests, including another national golf garland.

Harvard Six Faces Queen's at Garden

The Harvard varsity hockey team will play an International Intercollegiate League match at the Boston Garden tonight at 8:30 when it meets Queen's University of Kingston, Ontario.

Queen's, a year ago, finished in the runner-up position to McGill in the International League and Coach J. P. Walsh has another strong team with a fine veteran nucleus. Skating the Queen's forward line tonight will be Williamson, right winger, and left winger, Poupore who accounted for four goals against Harvard a year ago when the Crimson was beaten 6-2 at Kingston. Harvard will do well to keep Williamson in check in tonight's game because a year ago he scored three goals and had an assist.

Capt. Truman is a veteran at right defense and the three newcomers are B. Nielson at center and J. Nielson at left defense and J. Burrows in goal.

Queen's also has a veteran second line composed of R. Cowley at center, J. Carver at left wing, and R. Hepburn at right wing, and has a veteran reserve forward in M. McLean and an experienced alternate defense man in H. McGill who, while he did not play against Harvard a year ago, was in the Queen's lineup in Boston two years ago when Harvard won an exciting game 5-2 at the Garden breaking a 2-2 deadlock in the third period with three fast goals.

Mass. Ice Loop Ends Campaign Next Friday

Schoolboy followers are in for a treat this week as the four schoolboy circuits collide at different times on different days, offering the fans an opportunity to witness all of the leagues in action.

Action will start Thursday afternoon, when the Boston school hockeyists provide the entertainment on the Arena ice with a four-game program.

English, victorious in its only face-off, takes on Dorchester as the Red and Black sextet opens its season . . . in the second game Hyde Park meets South Boston as the football champions take to the ice for their first taste of competition . . . Brighton and East Boston play for the first time, while Jamaica Plain and Roslindale close the card with their first tilts.

Friday afternoon the Eastern Massachusetts League winds up its campaign with Dedham, undefeated in top place, a favorite to capture the pennant as it takes on Lexington in the feature . . . Brookline and Brockton, with mathematical chances if Dedham loses, battle in the big co-attraction . . . the other games pit Malden and Somerville, Natick and Hudson.

NEEDHAM FAVORED

The Friday night card at the Arena finds Waltham and Watertown opening the round in the best bout of the evening . . . top place Needham should continue its undefeated pace against Walpole while Wellesley vs Framingham and B. C. High vs. Quincy complete the best program of the year in the Bay State loop.

Moving out of the Garden, the Greater Bostons play their weekly frays at the Arena Saturday afternoon . . . league leader Arlington should continue its pace against Medford with Belmont and Cambridge Latin; Stoneham and Melrose; Rindge Tech and Newton filling out the engagement.

'Crusher' Blasts Shadow's Tactics

Steve Casey's protests that The Shadow did not do well by his younger brother, Jim, last Friday night when he crushed the young Irishman with his famous headlock at the Garden, may result in a bout between the hooded grappler and the champion, it developed last night.

Since Friday, Casey has been yelling "foul" and claims that the Shadow should not be allowed to wear the heavy bandage on his left elbow, which acts as a vise once he clamps in a headlock. The Shadow's only answer boils down to "baloney," and words have been flying thick and fast.

Awake to the possibilities of such a bout, Promoter Paul Bowser has asked both principals to meet with him today at his Chauncy street office and if they really mean it he will attempt to sign them for the next main event at the Garden.

"I hadn't planned on this bout," said Bowser yesterday. "But if these fellows really want to blow off a lot of steam, the place to do it is in the ring. I'll offer them a big guarantee and give Steve a chance for revenge and the Shadow a chance for the title. However, it may be that they will both have cooled off by the time I meet them."

Steve's argument is based on the manner in which the Shadow downed Jim. The younger Casey had the Shadow on the ropes at the time and the referee broke the hold. But before they could get back to the center of the ring the Shadow clamped on the headlock that decided the issue. Steve says the hold never should have been allowed and, even if it was legal, the bandage should have been barred.

Freak Deliveries Ruinous---Vance

CLEARWATER, Fla., Jan. 9 (AP)—Dazzy Vance, whose pitching feats are legendary up Brooklyn way, propped himself up in his hospital bed today and analyzed the epidemic of sore arms that has played hob with some of baseball's top-flight hurlers in recent months.

Effects of his seven-week fight against pneumonia were only slightly apparent on the big frame of the red-haired, square-jawed scrapper who used to be the scourge of National League hitters.

"I was discussing the sore arm with Judge Landis when he was up to see me," said Vance between puffs on a fat cigar.

HUBBELL STARTED IT

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, is spending the winter here and visits Vance frequently.

"Judge Landis," Dazzy continued, "said to me, 'Dazzy, back when you were playing ball, they didn't have these chipped bones in their arms. What do you think is causing it?'

"I told him I believed it was because the boys were trying to develop unorthodox deliveries to cope with the heavy hitting, and their arms wouldn't stand up to it."

Just as Babe Ruth started the free-swinging style of American League hitters, Dazzy theorized, so Carl Hubbell started the unorthodox delivery trend.

"Of course anything but a fast ball requires an unnatural delivery, but the old fashioned curves and the like were accomplished with a snap of the wrist that doesn't hurt the arm," Dazzy said.

SEVEN WEEKS IN BED

Dazzy agreed with those fans and players who believe, however, the present crop of pitchers is on a par with the old timers.

"Back when I was pitching," he remarked, "you could get by with a lot more---mud balls, spit balls and emery balls---but now the umpires call for a new ball every time the old one gets a fly speck on it."

Vance, who has operated a hunting and fishing lodge at Homosassa Springs since his retirement from baseball, was stricken with pneumonia seven weeks ago and had a relapse four weeks later, but he believes he is over the hill now.

When his fever was at its worst, he related, he thought he was playing ball again and had hit a home run—the dream of every pitcher.

"The nurse said she asked me why I was trying to get out of bed," he said, "and that I told her: 'Why I've just hit a home run and I've got to get out there and run.'"

Boston Listed In New League

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 8 (AP)—Representatives from six cities today reorganized the old American Professional Football League and announced plans for resuming play next fall.

Jack McBride, who said he would stage the games of his New York Yankees in Yankee Stadium, predicted ten clubs would participate in the 1939 campaign.

Shortly after the reorganization session McBride held a long conference with Marshall (Biggie) Goldberg and said he was confident Pitt's great star "will be playing in the Yankee Stadium next fall."

"I had a very satisfactory conference with Goldberg," reported McBride. "We discussed various terms. He's very receptive. I am confident I will be able to satisfy Goldberg financially. He is certain to be a terrific drawing card in Gotham."

Goldberg already has been drafted by the Chicago Cardinals of the National League. Reports had it that Card officials had interviewed him regarding his services next fall and that he turned down a $4000 offer from the Windy City club.

McBride said the league would be divided into eastern and western divisions with a playoff between the two at the close of the season. He said Providence, Boston, New York, Pittsburgh or Buffalo and Newark or Atlantic City would be included in the East and Pittsburgh or Buffalo, Cincinnati, Kansas City, St. Louis, Louisville or Nashville or Indianapolis and possibly Los Angeles in the West.

Bouve School Host In Ice Instruction

Under the auspices of the Bouve-Boston School of Physical Education the entire skating facilities and ice of the Boston Arena will be taken over tomorrow evening from 6:30 to 8 o'clock for all college and high school students within Greater Boston who wish to take advantage of this unique opportunity.

Believing that instruction in skating and enjoyment of skating go together, Miss Bouve and her faculty in collaboration with the Boston Y. W. C. A. have arranged for this skating period at a minimum fee of 40 cents a person. Reservations may be made at the Bouve-Boston School.

Boston Asks Grid Franchise

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9 (INS)—The merry click of turnstiles at professional football games last season today was believed to have been the prime inducement which led to reorganization of the old American pro football league.

At a lively meeting held in Pittsburgh, representatives from six cities mapped plans for resumption of the league, which was idle in 1938, for the fall of 1939.

Among those participating in the conferences were Jack McBride, New York; Richard ("Dick") Guy, Pittsburgh; Myer Saul, Atlantic City, N. J.; John Slovan, Kansas City, Mo.; Earl Seick, Buffalo, N. Y., and Dana King, Cincinnati, O.

Although conflicting with the recent draft for collegiate stars made by the National Pro League, the American moguls declared they had held their own draft and that they will bid for any player they think worth while.

Marshall Goldberg

McBride was reported to have approached Marshall ("Biggie") Goldberg, Pitt's All-America. He also claimed to made "a satisfying and hard-to-turn-down financial offer" to the Jewish star.

Goldberg already has been drafted by the Chicago Cards of the National League, but well-informed sources said he has definitely decided against playing pro football.

Telegrams inquiring about franchises, according to the conferees, were received from Providence, R. I., Boston, Mass., Louisville, Ky., and St. Louis, Mo.

Despite the fact that a mid-west league used the name American League in 1938, the magnates reported the name, American Professional League, Inc., will be continued. They claim they obtained a charter in 1936 in Boston.

Another pow-wow was scheduled by the officials for February 5 in New York City.

Wallace Top Shot

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (INS)—Fordham's Wesley Wallace will be a gentleman to conjure with in track and field this winter, it was certain today.

First of the record-breakers for 1939, Wallace demonstrated that he will be a difficult fellow to lead indoors.

That 500-meter mark of 1:04.4 which he established in the Columbus Council, K. of C. meet on Saturday night was so praiseworthy because it topped three-fifths of a second from a standard held jointly by Alan Helffrich and Phil Edwards, two great runners.

The 1:05 time of Helffrich and Edwards had stood for over ten years until Wallace demolished it with a furious pace that kept him in front all the way.

Cunningham Set For Biggest Year

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Glenn Cunningham has resumed his old trade of popping into town to run the heels off the best competition the indoor track promoters can provide.

He looks, feels and runs better than he did a year ago or five years ago, and there is no reason why he won't maul the records for the mile and 1500 meters a bit more this winter.

Glenn flew into town Saturday, ran 800 meters in 1:53 flat and flew out again.

Cunningham, who is 29, left his opponents from the veteran Gene Venzke to Leslie MacMitchell, a kid who was in short pants when Glenn was setting world records, gasping like gaffed salmon.

WANTS WOODERSON

"Uh, huh, I feel pretty good," said Glenn. "I don't know whether this will be my best year, but I am running better than I did this time a year ago.

"You know my work as a lecturer out in Kansas makes me travel a lot, and for a time I thought my back was getting too stiff.

"However, a week's work at New Orleans before the Sugar Bowl meet took care of that."

If there is any miler capable of beating Cunningham, it is Sydney Wooderson, the Britisher, who holds the accepted world's record of 4:06.4. Glenn would give his eye teeth to meet him.

"I'd like to race him every night in the week," said the Kansan. "Don't think I'm cocky. I'd just like to do it. Of course I think I can lick him. Besides, you know I'd like to get that record back."

The record business rankles with Glenn. He ran the fastest mile in history last winter, 4:04.4 on Dartmouth's indoor track, but the standard is Wooderson's effort.

M'MITCHELL GREAT

Cunningham thinks MacMitchell is the best of the "real young fellows" but he has high regard for Chuck Fenske and Lou Zamperini.

"There are a lot of good milers, but you fellows don't give them any time unless they run under 4:10. Let me tell you, a fellow who has run a 4:20 mile knows he's been doing something."

Part of the Cunningham legend is the change in the crowds' attitude toward him. When he first came East he was roundly booed each time he appeared on a track.

There didn't seem any particular reason unless it was the long time Glenn took to warm up.

You can almost put your finger on the time the fans started to cheer him.

It was on March 14, 1935, when he won the Columbian mile in abnormally slow time after literally "thinking" the others out of first place.

They started to holler for him then, and they've been doing it ever since.

Odds Drop On Armstrong

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9 (INS)—Odds dropped sharply today on Henry Armstrong, the busy little Negro holder of two titles who tomorrow night will defend his welterweight crown against Baby Arizmendi.

Whereas a week ago "Homicide Hank" was favored 4 to 1 in what few wagers were being laid, today the odds had dropped to 2½ to 1 with plenty of Arizmendi money looking for takers.

Although the New York Boxing Board has declared that Armstrong can't defend his welter title in less than 15 rounds against the tough Mexican who holds two decisions over him, the California Athletic Commission recognizes the scheduled 10-round fight as a championship affair, and a sellout of Olympic Auditorium seemed assured.

Billy Conn Latest Irish Ring Star

Pat Comiskey Is Also Promising

By JACK CONWAY

BILLY CONN of Pittsburgh, who administered such a decisive thumping to Fred Apostoli of San Francisco in the New York Garden, is one Irishman who can still fight in the ring . . . It was beginning to appear as if the Celtic ring kings were a thing of the past when Conn bobbed into the picture and scored smashing victories over Solly Krieger and Apostoli who have been rated as the top men in the middleweight class.

Mr. Boston

Conn is only 21 years of age, and so his boxing future is still very much in front of him . . . The Pittsburgh youngster weighs 168 pounds, and so may be counted out as far as the middleweight title is concerned . . . He will probably concentrate on the winning of the light heavyweight crown . . . There was a time when the light heavyweight title was a precious ring trophy . . . Knights of the padded mitts like gallant old Mike McTigue, Punch 'Em Paul Berlenbach and Jack Delaney earned fortunes during the periods they held the light heavyweight championship.

I was parked against the ring in Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn, the night Jack Delaney won the championship from Paul Berlenbach before a huge crowd that poured $500,000 into the box office.

Berlenbach was a ring assassin who came roaring out of his corner, and drove terrific left hooks to the body until his opponent crumbled . . . "Young" Stribling was a pretty fair fighter as a light heavyweight, but he couldn't stand up before Berlenbach's left hook . . . The last time I saw Berlenbach he was operating a golf driving range at Miami, Fla. . . . He told me he had lost the fortune he made boxing in Florida real estate investments.

Delaney had regal appearance in the ring . . . The fellow was a terrific right-hand puncher, and an amazingly good boxer . . . Jack is operating a garage in Bridgeport . . . Mike McTigue is still around New York . . . The stock market took his savings . . . I can visualize old Mike getting enthusiastic about youthful Billy Conn . . . Mike always contended the Irish make the best fighters, but recent ring records have not upheld this belief.

CONN, WHILE aggressive and a good puncher, also knows how to use a left hand . . . He will find that a fast left hand will win more bouts for him than any of his other boxing assets . . . Billy's left hand will also prolong his boxing life . . . Gene Tunney and Jack Sharkey came through the ring wars almost unmarked because they knew how to use a left hand.

Conn has rushed to the front at a time when Pat Comiskey, 18-year-old heavyweight from Jersey, is also coming in for considerable attention . . . Gene Tunney has cautioned Comiskey against trying to get big matches too quickly . . . It takes four to five years to develop a finished heavyweight and any youngster who attempts to cut down this time by many months usually ends up getting knocked out . . . Even Joe Louis ran into disaster when he took on Max Schmeling before he had mastered the fine points of the game . . . Two years later the "Brown Bomber" wrecked Der Max.

The desire to secure suitable opponents for Louis may cause the promoters to rush young heavyweights into important bouts before they are ready for them . . . There is already talk of matching Lou Nova of California with Joe Louis this year . . . Nova is at least two to three years away from a Louis bout in the matter of ring form, but I don't believe the promoters of the Nova management will care to permit the young Californian to gain the necessary schooling before going against the champion.

If there was not such a scarcity of heavyweight talent, youngsters like Nova would not be even considered for a title bout.

PAT FOLEY, Worcester lightweight, and Oreille Drouillard, Canadian lightweight champion, will collide in a ten-round bout at Mechanics Building, Worcester, on Friday night . . . The Cocoa Kid will try to outbox the heavy hitting Ralph Zannelli in their New England welterweight championship match in Providence tonight . . . The Cocoa Kid is a 10-to-7 favorite to win . . . When the Cocoa Kid last boxed in Boston, he outscored George Martin of the South End and proved he still possesses his old ring magic.

Lou Brouillard is on the high seas bound for France in the company of Jerry Buckley . . . Lou has a $6000 guarantee with a percentage privilege for four matches in Europe under the promotion of Jeff Dickson . . . When Brouillard reaches Paris, he will be met by Yvon Robert, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion . . . Robert and Brouillard are close friends . . . Yvon is under contract to wrestle Henri DeGlane in Paris . . . This mat tussle will bring together the teacher and the pupil . . . It was DeGlane who taught Robert to wrestle . . . At the time Henri had a training camp outside of Montreal, and used Yvon as a sparring partner.

Paul Bowser is trying to match Steve Casey and "The Shadow" . . . Casey is very much on fire as a result of the tactics "The Shadow" used as he tossed Brother Jim . . . Who is "The Shadow"? . . . Ed Don George, Leo Numa, Marvin Westenburg, Maurice Robert and Pat McGill have been suggested as being "The Shadow."

'Pures' Battle to Enter State Finals at Arena

The "tops" in amateur boxing circles in Massachusetts—battling youngsters from all sections of the Commonwealth, Fall River, New Bedford, Vineyard Haven, Bridgewater, Taunton, Plymouth, Lawrence, Lowell, Wilmington, Stoneham, Worcester, Fitchburg, Leominster, Fisherville, Millbury, Northbridge, Framingham and metropolitan Boston will clash tonight at the Boston Arena in the final tryout tourney of the 1939 Massachusetts state boxing championships sponsored by the Irish-American A. A.

NICK SULLO
Pride of East Boston

Bouts will be staged in all eight classes at championship weights—flyweight to heavyweight—and a bumper crop of leather tossers will be on hand.

Tonight's winners, together with the victors in the elimination shows held at Lynn, Lawrence, Quincy and Worcester, will clash in the state championship finals at the Arena next Monday night, January 16.

The winners of the state championships will automatically qualify for the New England championships, scheduled for March 13.

Every class on tonight's card is studded with promising simon-pure punch throwers, and every boy is out to win his class. A win tonight means much to the victor, for it qualifies him for the state finals.

If fortunate enough to win that title he thereby gets an opportunity to box for a New England championship and for selection on the New England team that will be sent to San Francisco for the national A. A. U. championships early next April.

Sixty-four Bay Staters have already signed for the evening's festivities—five flyweights, nine bantams, eight featherweights, 14 lightweights, 12 in the 147-pound class, 12 middleweights, one light-heavy and two heavies. As the lists will be kept open until weighing-in time, there are bound to be additional entries in the two heavier divisions.

Golden Gloves champions, All-America titleholders and former state and New England champions will be in there tonight swinging in an effort to make the grade for the state finals next week.

Murphy-Farrell Clash in Quincy

The South Shore Sporting Club will launch its initial pro ring show at the Arena, Quincy, Thursday night.

In the feature bout of eight rounds, Jimmy Murphy of Roxbury, and Wesley Farrell of Boston, junior welters, will clash in a return contest.

Zannelli Go Off Tonight

Sam Price, Providence boxing promoter, was forced to tentatively cancel the New England welterweight championship battle of 12 rounds scheduled to take place at Providence, R. I., tonight, and which was to have featured Roughhouse Ralph Zannelli, the challenger, against the Cocoa Kid, title holder.

Zannelli suffered a painful boil on his right arm late last week, and after the wound was lanced it failed to respond to immediate treatment, and Phil Buccola, his manager, was forced to ask for a postponement.

Chmielewski Signs to Fight

Henry Chmielewski, Polish middleweight has been signed for a series of bouts by Chick Hayes, Portland boxing promoter.

Chmielewski has won four bouts since he came to the United States. He is one of the best middleweights to ever show in a Boston ring.
